

Nixon denies ITT 'bought' favor

Combined News Services

WASHINGTON — President Nixon gave a public vote of confidence in attorney general-designate Richard G. Kleindienst Friday and declared that his administration would never accept a campaign contribution with the "expressed or implied" understanding of a return favor.

Nixon, during a 35-minute news conference in his office, said: "I had confidence when I appointed him that he was qualified for this position. I still have that confidence. I believe that he should be confirmed and I believe that he will be confirmed."

Speaking out for the first time since the ITT controversy burst wide open more than three weeks ago, the President categorically denied the administration had given any favors to International Telephone and Telegraph Co.

In fact, he told reporters, the Justice Department had moved more forcefully against the giant conglomerate during his administration than under Democratic presidents John F. Kennedy or Lyndon B. Johnson.

"If we wanted to do a favor for ITT, we could have continued to do what was done in the previous administrations, which is nothing," Nixon said.

In his first personal defense of Kleindienst, the President said nothing in the hearings before the Senate Judiciary Committee had "shaken my confidence in Mr. Kleindienst as an able, honest man, fully qualified to be attorney general of the United States."

The Senate committee, headed by Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., has been investigating alleged connections between an out-of-court settlement of an antitrust action against ITT and an ITT contribution to the Republican Party.

The alleged connection was brought to public attention by columnist Jack Anderson, who published a memorandum purportedly written by ITT lobbyist Mrs. Dita Beard.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation suggested Friday that the memo, the authenticity of which has been questioned, had been written on Mrs. Beard's typewriter. The FBI also said it had not been written on the typewriter of Brit Hume, one of Anderson's reporters, as had been alleged in a committee hearing.

On Capitol Hill, Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III, D-Ill., urged the President to withdraw the nomination of Kleindienst, who has been accused of having a hand in arranging settlement of the ITT antitrust suit.

Stevenson, in remarks prepared for delivery on the Senate floor, said "the President warns grocers Cut food prices or government will

WASHINGTON — President Nixon Friday blamed processors and grocers for rising food costs and told them if they don't reduce their share of the shopper's dollar the government will do it for them.

"We are going to get at the middlemen one way or another," Nixon said at an unannounced-in-advance White House news conference.

He said farmers and cattlemen aren't to blame for rising food prices, which went up 1.7 per cent last month, because they get only one-third of what consumers pay.

"The other two-thirds goes to the middleman," he said, adding that the spread is already too great and getting wider.

Nixon's remarks on food prices appeared to rule out any action to extend price controls to raw farm products, which have been exempt since the beginning of the price freeze last Aug. 15.

Price Commission Chairman C. Jackson Grayson said one week earlier that he might ask Nixon's Cost of Living Council to control farm products, or might act independently to limit the amount of farm-price increases that middlemen may pass along to consumers.

A member of Congress suggested Friday that Americans fight soaring food prices by doing without meat at least two days a week, but another lawmaker called for a boycott of two supermarket chains advising consumers to buy meat substitutes.

The call for a partial meat boycott came from Rep. William Cotter, D-Conn. A short time later, Rep. Bill Scherle, R-Iowa, proposed a boycott of the Giant Food Corp., and of Safeway Stores Inc.

At that time Grayson sharply criticized Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz for applauding higher farm prices, and said Butz was hurting the effort to control inflation. Grayson also said he hadn't consulted with the White House before making his statement.

The Price Commission will hold hearings next April 12 into food prices. Grayson announced them Thursday and said they shouldn't be taken as a signal that stricter controls are coming. Nixon said the hearings would focus on middlemen's profits.

Grayson was out of town and not immediately available for comment.

Friday morning Treasury Secretary John B. Connally

ly said in a television interview that controls on food prices hadn't worked in the past. Nixon said he had talked about food prices with Connally and the entire Cost of Living Council Thursday.

When questioning turned to domestic issues the President said he was disappointed by the increase in food costs during February but added that this is one area not controlled by his economic stabilization program.

He said it is a mistake to blame farmers for the increase because they receive only one-third of what consumers pay for food. "The other two-thirds goes to the middlemen," Nixon said, adding that the spread has widened and is too great.

That is why, Nixon said, his Price Commission will open hearings April 12 to determine "whether profit margins have gone beyond guidelines."

If the middleman's spread of the food dollar does not decline, the President said, "other action will have to be taken." He then cited an example: a farmer gets 30 cents a dozen for eggs but in the Pierre Hotel in New

Arms limit pact seen at U.S.-Russ summit

WASHINGTON — President Nixon said Friday the United States and the Soviet Union may reach agreement mutually limiting their defensive and offensive weapons stockpiles during his upcoming Moscow visit.

Other agreements also may be concluded, the President said, and "prospects for the success of this summit trip are very good."

Nixon also told a news conference in his White House Oval Office that he ordered the suspension of the Paris peace talks until the North Vietnamese stopped using the conference for what he views as a propaganda forum.

Seeking to break what he claimed was "the three-and-one-half-year filibuster" staged by the Communist side, the President said he had detected that PARIS (UPI) — Mme. Nguyen Thi Binh, chief Viet Cong negotiator who spent the last six months in Hanoi, arrived in Paris Friday and angrily denounced the United States which suspended the Vietnam peace talks 24 hours before her return.

The Viet Cong "foreign minister," condemned the suspension as "reflecting the systematic sabotage of the Paris conference" by President Nixon.

No further meetings be held with the Vietnamese Communists until they displayed a willingness for serious discussions.

Responding to a question on U.S. moves which forced suspension of the Paris peace talks Thursday, Nixon said the Communists "have refused to negotiate seriously."

"When the enemy is ready to negotiate seriously," he said, talks can resume through public or private channels.

"When they are ready, we are ready," Nixon declared in outlining the U.S. position on the stalled meetings.

Discussing the Moscow trip that starts May 22, Nixon said it will be devoted "to a number of substantive issues of very great importance" and one of them may be the Strategic Arms Limitations Talks (SALT).

"I believe that there is a good chance at this point, particularly in view of Mr. Brezhnev's quite constructive remarks in his speech the other day, that we may reach an agreement on SALT in Moscow, on defense and offensive limitations, and also agreements in a number of other areas," Nixon said.

The President referred to Soviet Party Chairman Leonid Brezhnev.

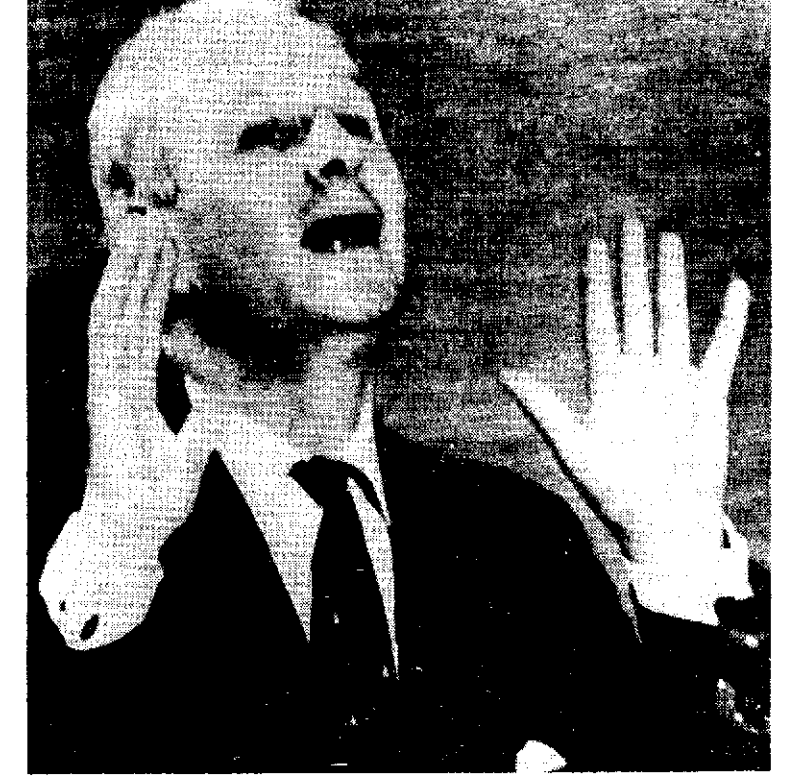

"I would say at this time the prospects for the success of this summit trip are very good," Nixon added.

He said that while there was agreement in principle, the two countries were "very far apart" on some issues, including the question of whether submarine-launched missile systems should be included.

He said attempts would be made to narrow the differences and he believed there was "a good chance" of getting constructive results.

Nixon met earlier this week with Gerard Smith, chief negotiator for the U.S. at the SALT talks.

When a reporter noted that Nixon has been going off to visit a number of Communist leaders and asked whether he was also going to see Fidel Castro, Cuban Communist leader, Nixon said: "No, I have not been invited."

PRIME MINISTER BRIAN FAULKNER BACK IN NORTH IRELAND
Premier Tells of Stormy Meeting With British Leaders

North Irish challenge British, see '1,000 dead'

RELFAST (UPI) — Thousands marched in protest and militant Catholic and Protestant leaders predicted increased bloodshed Friday because of Britain's decision to impose direct rule on Northern Ireland.

"I think there will be 1,000 people killed this summer," said a Catholic leader, Eamonn McMann, predicting a violent Protestant reaction to the British move. A Protestant leader, William Craig, predicted civil war.

BOMBS exploded in Belfast and Londonderry within a few hours of the announcement of the decision by British Prime Minister Edward Heath in London. Fourteen civilians and a British soldier were injured.

Approximately 6,000 Protestant workers at the Harland and Wolff Shipyards in Belfast walked off their jobs within minutes of the announcement and paraded four abreast through the capital, shouting denunciation of direct British rule.

Premier Brian Faulkner issued an announcement of his resignation and that of his cabinet, but he said he would remain in office for a few days in a caretaker capacity until the British Parliament formalizes Heath's decision.

Under the British plan designed to curtail the increasing sectarian and political violence in the province, the Northern Ireland Stormont (Parliament) will be suspended for one year and the province will be governed directly from London. Heath also said there will be periodic plebiscites in this Protestant-dominated province to determine whether its people wish to remain a part of the United Kingdom or join the predominantly Catholic Irish Republic to the south.

HEATH also promised to phase out the controversial program of arrest

War hero loses battle to drugs

MIDDLETOWN, Conn. — Michael Wayne Ross, whose Vietnam war wounds brought him a jubilant homecoming parade and — his lawyer says — a drug habit, was sent to prison Friday.

Four years ago, 15,000 people in this quiet central Connecticut town turned out to give Michael, now 22, and his older brother, Maurice, 24, a welcome home. Maurice had lost a leg in Vietnam. Michael an arm and an eye.

For Michael, the wounds led to drugs, and the drugs to stealing, his lawyer said.

Only a handful of people came to court Friday to see him sentenced to 1 to 3 years in state prison for breaking and entering and larceny.

Michael's lawyer said the former Marine's hospital treatment led to a drug habit.

Michael was convicted on charges stemming from a house break in which a television set was stolen. Maurice was acquitted in the same case.

Salvatore Arena, attorney for the brothers, called Michael's "a classic case of drug addiction ... in February, 1968, in an instant, he sustained injuries which destined his appearance here today."

Major probe of ITT set

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee voted unanimously Friday to begin a major inquiry into International Telephone and Telegraph Co. involvement in Chile and the role of multinational corporations in U.S. foreign policy.

The committee decided to act following publication of confidential documents suggesting that ITT and the Central Intelligence Agency collaborated in an effort to foment an army coup in Chile that would prevent Marxist Salvador Allende from becoming president in 1970.

SEN. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., the foreign relations chairman, said the investigation, backed by committee power to subpoena documents and witnesses, could last a full year. Public witnesses will include representatives of the administration, ITT and other corporations.

Fulbright and Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, who proposed the inquiry, assured Republicans it had nothing to do with the Senate Judiciary Committee's current hearings on Richard G. Kleindienst's confirmation to be attorney general and his role in the settlement of a Justice Department antitrust suit against ITT last year.

FULBRIGHT'S inquiry, like the Kleindienst investigation, was prompted by syndicated columnist Jack Anderson's publication of documents he attributed to ITT.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — International Telephone and Telegraph Co. has acquired 16 additional U.S. and foreign firms since reaching a controversial out-of-court antitrust settlement with the Justice Department last July, Scripps-Howard newspapers said Friday. Six of the acquisitions were in this country and the others involved companies in West Germany, the Netherlands, England, Spain, Mexico and Jamaica.

chronicling the conglomerate's activities in Chile between September and November of 1970, when Allende was elected president. The documents concerned meetings between ITT officials and the CIA, the State Department and the Chilean military establishment concerning an alleged attempt to create economic chaos encouraging a military takeover of the government before Allende's inauguration.

ITT feared losing by expropriation its $95-million investment in Chile, which included hotels and the National Telephone Company.

3 Detroit police face death counts

DETROIT — Wayne County Prosecutor William Cahalan announced Friday that warrants have been issued for assault to commit murder against three Detroit police STRESS officers for their role in the shootout with Wayne County Sheriff Deputies March 9.

STRESS is an acronym for "Stop the Robberies — Enjoy Safe Streets." It was established 14 months ago.

Cahalan said the officers had been arraigned on the charges and a hearing had been set for March 29.

ONE DEPUTY was killed and three others injured — one critically — in the shootout which occurred when the police officers followed one of the deputies to an apartment where a card game was in progress.

The three officers charged were identified as James R. Harris, 26; Ronald Martin, 38, and Virgil E. Starkey, 21.

Cahalan said his department's investigation indicated that none of the five deputies involved in the incident appeared to be guilty of a crime, and that some had been beaten by police officers following the shooting.

Reds blow up armored cars, capture 28 men
Combined News Service

SAIGON — Communist troops ambushed a South Vietnamese armored column in southern Cambodia Friday afternoon, blowing up at least three armored cars and capturing 28 soldiers, military sources said.
In South Vietnam, the U.S. Command said 10 waves of U.S. B52 bombers pounded the northern half of the country Friday night, dumping 900 tons of bombs on suspected Communist targets. Communists launched rocket grenades at the armored cars near Kampong Trach, 75 miles south of Phnom Penh, and then overran the convoy. Three of the cars were reported destroyed and 28 soldiers were taken in tow. It was the third consecutive day of attacks in the area. One government militiaman was killed and two wounded early Friday in another attack near Mo Cay district capital, 46 miles southwest of Saigon. Eight militiamen were taken prisoner.

Seoul hotel fire fatal to 4
SEOUL, Saturday — Fire ravaged a seven-story downtown hotel today and four persons were killed, two of them when they jumped from upper floors. Five others, including a Japanese and a Frenchman, were injured. Police said they believed the fire was caused by a short circuit on the fifth floor of the 48-room Hotel Palace. The top three floors were nearly gutted in the two hours before the flames were brought under control. Damage was estimated by police at $40,000. The Palace is across the street from the Taeyonkak Hotel, where a fire on Christmas Day killed 164 persons.

Kidnapers threaten to kill hostage
BUENOS AIRES — Leftist guerrillas who kidnaped Fiat executive Oberdan Salustro threatened Friday to execute him within 48 hours unless 50 guerrilla prisoners were freed and a million dollar ransom was paid. The ransom money would go to "the people," a guerrilla communiqué said, to buy books and clothes for schoolchildren. The military government said it would not release the imprisoned guerrillas. Salustro, 56, is general manager of Fiat-Concord, a subsidiary of Italy's huge auto company. One of his sons and Fiat officials reported they would pay the ransom money.

Soviet polar fleet strength told
OSLO — The Soviet polar fleet is now estimated to include more than 100,000 soldiers, 170 missile-carrying submarines and 500 surface-going vessels, the Norwegian military command told the Storting (parliament) Friday. The previously secret report said the Soviet Baltic Sea fleet consists of more than 700 vessels. The report said there has been a steady increase in the development of military installations, forces and activities in Soviet territories bordering on Scandinavia.

Bank of Japan makes record loan
TOKYO — The Bank of Japan has agreed to lend the World Bank the equivalent of $325 million in yen in the largest single borrowing transaction in World Bank history. The largest previous borrowing was $265 million in the U.S. in 1968.

Bomb kills 2, isolates Phnom Penh
PHNOM PENH — A massive plastic charge hidden in a truckload of firewood blew a gaping hole Friday in the center of Phnom Penh's only bridge across the Ton Le Sap River, isolating the capital's naval base from vehicular traffic. At least two persons were killed and four injured in the massive explosion which blew a hole 15 yards wide in the road bed. It was feared others might have been blown into the river.

Common Market opens new farm plan
BRUSSELS — The European Common Market launched a 10-year agricultural modernization program Friday, agreeing to pay higher support prices for farm products and to reduce the number of farmers in the community. Agricultural ministers of the six current members and four prospective members of the market voted the equivalent of $717 million to finance the program for reducing the number of farmers but improving and expanding the more productive farms. The higher price supports will take effect April 1.

China, Pakistan sign agreement
KARACHI — China and Pakistan signed an agreement Friday for the supply of additional material to feed an industrial complex financed and built near Rawalpindi by the Peking government. The complex produces road rollers, sugar mill machinery, railway axles and heavy foundry cranes. A Pakistan government spokesman said: "We have plans to expand the variety of production, including essentials for the very existence of the nation's life."

Victim says bus driver didn't stop; 3 killed

CONGERS — A freight train rammed into a school bus at a rural grade crossing Friday, killing three high school pupils and injuring 47 persons, eight of them critically. Bus wreckage was scattered along the track for a quarter mile. Local and federal investigators launched an investigation into the tragedy.
Patricia Bundick, 18, of Valley Cottage, who suffered cuts in the collision, said the bus slowed at the crossing but did not come to a halt. "He (the driver) hesitated to stop, but then went right through because he was going too fast to stop," she said. "I called out there was a train coming. I looked out at the train and a few of the other kids must have too. A few of us screamed out. He (the driver) hesitated to stop, but he kept on going. The next thing I knew I was on the ground," she recalled.
Two of the youngsters were killed when pinned under the train and one died en route to a hospital. Five of the injured were reported in serious condition, some with loss of limbs. At Nyack Hospital where all seven operating rooms were in use.

Home gas blast kills 2 children
ANNANDALE, Va. — A explosion touched off by escaping natural gas flattened two homes in a housing development here Friday, killing two children and injuring two other persons. Fire Chief George Alexander said the bodies were recovered from the rubble of a home owned by Mr. and Mrs. Ishmail Sarsour. Mrs. Sarsour, 30, was critically burned and a gas company worker, Willis Walker, 27, Arlington, less seriously burned. The Washington Gas & Light Co. said a sewer contractor, was working about a half block away when he cut a high-pressure gas line leading to the homes.

Two more states make women equal
AMES — Two more states ratified the proposed constitutional amendment providing equal rights for women Friday, bringing to six the number of states that have approved it. Thirty-eight states must do so for it to become law. Iowa and Idaho acted Friday. Delaware, Hawaii, Nebraska and New Hampshire acted earlier. If the necessary number of additional states act with equal dispatch, the amendment could become a part of the Constitution in record time. The last previous amendment, the 26th Amendment which lowered the voting age to 18, was ratified in a record 99 days last year.

Top automakers to fight air bags
DETROIT — Ford Motor Co. Chairman Henry Ford II has picked up support from chairmen of America's three other automakers in his opposition to government-ordered installation of air bags as safety devices in 1975 model passenger cars. Ford says he still opposes air bags, "because I don't think they are going to work properly." The four auto company chairmen also agree that they'll fight giving the United Auto Workers Union any voice in policy-making decisions when their new contract bargaining comes up in the fall of 1973.

Students set up scholarship fund for murdered Ballou boy

Combined News Services
A group of black high school students who "want the world to know that we care" said Friday night they are starting a scholarship fund in memory of Robert Brooks Ballou, 16, who was beaten to death Monday when he refused to surrender his leather jacket. Vernel Carter, 16, a friend of Ballou, said she and another friend, Janine King, 15, got the idea for the scholarship while collecting, door-to-door, for a wreath for Ballou's funeral today.
A Rosary was recited at St. Raphael's Catholic Church Friday night for Ballou. He will be buried at Holy Cross Cemetery this morning.

Miss Carter said she and Miss King first started collecting money for a wreath and when they had about $30, they got the idea of starting a scholarship "because we want the world to know that we care." She said about 25 other black high school students have been recruited to help collect money and she expressed hope that others will help too. "We want as much help to build as big a scholarship as we can because so many kids can benefit from a scholarship," she said. "It won't end." She pointed out that Ballou had been helped by a scholarship.
Ballou, the son of a Los Angeles attorney and cousin of former UCLA linebacker, Mike Ballou, was a varsity football player at Los Angeles High School which he attended on a scholarship.

So far, Miss Carter said, students helping in the scholarship drive were from Hamilton High School, which she attends, Notre Dame High School, which Miss King attends, and Los Angeles, Crenshaw and Mt. Carmel high schools. All are in predominantly black areas of Los Angeles.

David Abraham, an adult adviser to the scholarship drive, said the kids were "trying to make the community aware."
"If the kids can show they care, perhaps in the future this kind of thing (the killing of Ballou) would not happen. It would make everyone stop and think and realize that not everybody in that area does the same thing. 'The kids there do care,' he said.

Hearing set on Terminal Island action

Teamster pickets halted by court

By WALT MURRAY
Staff Writer

A temporary restraining order was served on Teamsters Union members who were picketing the Matson container freight station on Terminal Island Friday night.

The court order, which also set a 10 a.m. Monday hearing on an injunction to permanently halt the picketing, was issued in U.S. District Court in Los Angeles.

The National Labor Relations Board sought the court action against Teamster's Local 692.

The NLRB regional office in Los Angeles was instructed by its Washington headquarters to seek the restraining order, according to Gordon Bart, Matson vice president.

Jake Koenig, secretary-treasurer of Teamster's local, was not immediately available for comment.

Bart said Thursday unless the picketing was halted either voluntarily by the teamsters or by court order he would be forced to shut down the Terminal Island cargo freight station and container terminal at the close of work Friday.

The teamsters started picketing the Matson facility Monday. They said some cargo handling work had been shifted from teamsters to longshoremen in violation of the teamsters' agreement with the shipping company.

Lockheed fined $500 over blast

$765 million asked in county budget

By NOEL SWANN
From Our L.A. Bureau

Lockheed Shipbuilding and Construction Co. was fined $500 Friday for concealing a gas meter in connection with the Sylmar tunnel explosion which killed 17 workers last June.

The fine was imposed by Superior Court Judge Robert C. Nye after he turned down a motion for a new trial.

A Municipal Court jury convicted Lockheed last month on a charge of concealing evidence — the gas-testing meter — during the investigation of the explosion.

NYE said Friday that the jury reached a "proper verdict" in his opinion, but he added, "It is the court's personal opinion, entirely independent of the facts of this case, that Section 135 of the Penal Code ought to be a felony." Section 135 deals with concealing evidence.

The prosecution contended during the trial that Lockheed concealed the gas meter until August although the firm knew investigators were searching for it.

The firm's resident safety engineer, Otha G. Roe Jr., was acquitted of charges in the case.

Latest budget requests filed this week have boosted the net spending total sought by department heads to $765.5 million — an increase of $46.9 million over last year.

The newest request also brings to 2,716 the number of extra staff positions being sought for the 1972-73 fiscal year.

Net spending is the difference between estimated operational costs and expected revenue.

As such, the net cost is the figure on which the tax rate is based.

Should the current departmental requests be granted, the $46.9-million excess over last year's balance would represent an increase in the property tax rate of about 26 cents per $100 of assessed valuation.

However, budget requests are merely raw estimates that have to be subjected to scrutiny by the chief administrative officer. And many of the amounts are expected to be severely trimmed before the proposed budget is presented to supervisors May 2.

Sailor dies after being hit by boom

A Palos Verdes Peninsula man died Friday after the boom of his sailboat struck him in the head and knocked him into the water near Pier 9 at Long Beach Naval Station.

William A. McMahan, 59, a retired naval officer, was pronounced dead aboard the hospital ship USS Repose, despite efforts of a companion who towed McMahan ashore at Pier 9 and sought help.

Police said the incident occurred at 4:45 p.m. on a small sailboat 500 feet south of Pier 9.

Overpaid

I began receiving Social Security benefits in 1969. Since I was working parttime and making more than the allowed amount, I was notified in April, 1971 that the Social Security Administration had overpaid me for 1969 and 1970. My benefits were withheld until October, 1971. In January, my checks again stopped coming. I have called the Huntington Park office a number of times, but nothing has changed. I need this money very badly. Can ACTION LINE help? R. P., Lynwood.

No. This current withholding of benefits still is part of the 1969-70 overpayment, according to a spokesman for the Huntington Park office. The benefits withheld in 1971 did not cover the entire amount. Your monthly payments are scheduled to start again in April, but in order to avoid another overpayment situation, the Huntington Park office needs to know your employment plans for this year. The spokesman said that you have refused to discuss your current outside income with the interviewer assigned to your case. To avoid continuing problems, you had better get together with them.

Cross words

I go to Jefferson Junior High School on Seventh Street. I'm in the eighth grade and I'm 13. I walk to school and several times I've almost been hit in the crosswalk by cars that have been in too much of a hurry to stop for me. Today I was nearly hit on my way to and from school. Pretty soon I'm going to be scared to cross that street, or dead. Is there anything that can be done? C.L., Long Beach.

You should cross at Termino Avenue and Seventh Street, a block east of your school, where there is both a crossing guard and a traffic signal, advised Lt. Orville James of the Long Beach Police Department's Traffic Division. A crossing guard is there to aid children going to a nearby elementary school. It's a city policy — which has school district approval — not to assign crossing guards at junior high schools. However, the guard does assist Jefferson students to cross at Mira Mar Avenue a short time before and after he is needed at the Termino Avenue intersection.

LEEP year

I have been a Los Angeles City police officer for two years. When I was in college I obtained a $500 LEEP (Law Enforcement Education Program) loan from the U.S. Department of Justice, with the understanding that 25 per cent of the amount would be forgiven for each year I was in law enforcement and the total amount forgiven after four years in law enforcement. The Justice Department continues to bill me for the entire sum, although the police personnel office forwarded a verification of my employment to them several months ago. Can ACTION LINE help? R.H., Long Beach.

Apparently either your personnel office did not forward the verification form to the Department of Justice, or it was lost somewhere along the way, ACTION LINE was told by Washington, D.C. LEEP spokesman Joyce Bryson. She said you should again have your employer complete the verification form you got with your last bill and mail it yourself, with a letter of explanation, to the U.S. Department of Justice, Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, Washington, D.C. 20530, attention: Sandy Smith, Billing and Collections, Room 910. Ms. Bryson said you will be billed periodically until the four year period is over, and must return the verification form each time.

Babes in the woods

I soon will be 17 years old and am interested in the Junior Forest Service. Can ACTION LINE get more information? F. M., Long Beach.

ACTION LINE checked with the U.S. Forest Service and with the California Division of Forestry and was told by spokesmen for both agencies that there is no Junior Forest Service. You might be referring to the Junior Ranger or "You Want to be a Ranger" Club run by the Naturalists at Yosemite National Park. Each summer beginning in mid-June, the naturalists there present weekly programs for teen-agers interested in forestry service. The programs last three days, two of which are spent on an overnight hike into the back country. There also is a three-day program for children from grades three through six. To participate, youngsters need only inquire when they arrive at the Yosemite Park headquarters.

REACTION

In regards to the March 11 response by the president of Sta-Power, I am afraid he has avoided the real issue. The fact that many Sta-Power distributors are stuck with large amounts of product will testify to their inability to retail these products in the framework set up by the company. So the individual distributor must continue pyramiding by recruiting more unaware people through inducing about the money to be made through retail sales. But few, if any, sell retail in volume. W. W., Long Beach.

'Bear Country' to debut today

There's gonna be a great day at Disneyland today when Anaheim's dazzling "amusement" park opens its seventh new "land" and its 54th major attraction.

"Bear Country," built at an estimated cost of $8 million on four acres adjacent to the Haunted House, emphatically emphasizes America's present predilection for country music.

Highlight of any visit to Bear Country is the 15-minute animated (in its truest sense) show featuring 18 real-looking-and-acting bears, plus a talking moose, buffalo and stag.

The fast-paced presentation utilizes the unique Disney Audio-Animatronics techniques that made the Tiki Tiki Room such a rousing success a few years ago.

The Disney technicians appear to have improved the techniques to the point where the audience not only claps its hands in the rousing finale but seems to want to sing along.

Fifteen separate, short musical numbers, some of them already well known by country music fans and some specially written for the show, are featured.

In addition to the five-piece hillbilly band, known as the Bear Rugs, the show features a dance trio, known as the Sun Bonnets with such exotic individual names as "Bunny, Bubbles and Beulah, and a hefty singer named Teddi Barra who swings gracefully from an overhead trapeze, on the distaff side.

Voices used in the production include Tex Ritter, Cheryl Poole and the Stoneman Family as well as professional vocalists from the Walt Disney Productions.

The Disneyland Bear Country Jamboree theater is a double replica of one which has been in operation at Florida's Disney World since its opening.

The Disneyland facility consists of two elaborately decorated theaters, each of which seat 306 persons.

Panel will hear case in 'sick-in'

From Our L.A. Bureau

The county's Employee Relations Commission Friday agreed to hear management's charges that an employees' union engaged in unfair labor practices by fomenting the recent "sick-in" staged by 1,600 workers.

Management has accused the 30,000-member County Employees Association, Local 660, of organizing the one-day walkout by hospital workers, clerks, key-punch operators and computer operators March 13.

Union officials contended the "sick-in" was a spontaneous demonstration by workers protesting alleged management stalling in contract talks.

While the Employee Relations Commission agreed to act as the hearing body for the management charges, no date was set for the review.

OK of civic center's revision seen likely

From Our L.A. Bureau

Supervisors Tuesday are expected to approve revised plans for the proposed parking structure at the Torrance-South Bay Civic Center in a move calculated to save about $3 million.

Originally the board last July approved preliminary plans for a 1,105-car, two-level underground structure costing an estimated $5.2 million.

But in a report to the board Friday, Chief Administrative Officer Arthur Will said new studies showed the county's parking needs could be met by a surface structure for 720 cars at an estimated cost of $3.2 million.

Will said the new proposal would require realignment of certain county and city of Torrance property lines at the Civic Center site, 625 Maple Ave.

As a result of the plan change, the county would have to acquire some city-owned land costing $250,000 and also would have to develop additional surface parking lots, circulation roads and a central park area at a further cost of $250,000.

Will stressed that the extra $500,000 for acquisition and development costs would have occurred anyway under the original plan for underground construction, so that this sum should not be considered as an additional expense.

Corrigan searchers still hopeful

Civil Air Patrol officials remained hopeful Friday they would find the missing son of famed flier Douglas "Wrong Way" Corrigan, despite three days of fruitless searching.

Nearly a dozen CAP planes and two ground crews combed an area along the coast from Orange County to San Diego Friday in the hunt for Roy W. Corrigan, 22, and a companion.

Corrigan and Roger Powell of Santa Ana disappeared Tuesday after taking off in Corrigan's single-engine plane from Orange County Airport. The aerial search for them began the next morning.

CAP officials said Powell told friends the two planned a flight over Orange County and south to San Diego to shoot some aerial photographs in the Laguna Beach area.

Corrigan did not file a flight plan with the FAA, the CAP said, and a check of airports along Corrigan's probable 75-mile route failed to reveal any clues to his whereabouts.

Tunney: set noise controls or go deaf

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Sen. John V. Tunney said Friday failure to take steps now against noise pollution "will create the dreadful prospect of deafening people."

At the present rate, the California Democrat said, "the overall loudness of our urban environment may double within 10 years."

Speaking at a hearing of the Senate subcommittee on air and water pollution, Tunney said noise now has a significant impact on more than 60 million Americans.

ABOUT 40 million of these, he said, "are literally listening to a health hazard, risking hearing impairment and other physiological and psychological effects."

The subcommittee is considering three major noise pollution bills, including one by Tunney and Sen. Edmund Muskie, D-Maine, which would require the federal government to adopt noise standards and to provide funding support to state and local noise control programs.

The measure would allow states to impose tougher standards if necessary.

State Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, D-Van Nuys, told Tunney other proposed federal noise measures could "handcuff" California's noise control program.

Some Congressional proposals would "pre-empt" states from enforcing regulations more stringent than those of the federal government.

I URGE YOU to do nothing to stall the advances we have made against noise pollution," said Moretti. "The State Legislature strongly believes that will be the net effect of legislation pending in Congress — in our case at least."

Because California leads the nation in combating noise pollution, Tunney said, the state was chosen for the subcommittee's first hearing. "We can learn from that experience in drafting federal legislation," he said.

Light eater

After Frank P. Reese, 44, landed in Collin County jail in McKinney, Texas, light bulbs started to disappear at an alarming rate. Sheriff Tom Montgomery went into action and solved the case. Reese, arrested for jumping bond, was eating the bulbs. The prisoner said he had started the practice as a child when there was nothing else to eat. The sheriff then served up this helping to the inmate, sending out an all-points appeal for more bulbs.

Report says state job bias extensive

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The State of California "will never become an equal opportunity employer" at the rate it is hiring members of minority groups, a report to the state charged Friday.

The so-called "Black and Brown Report" to Gov. Reagan and the Legislature said that blacks and Chicanos were being deprived of 21,000 state jobs and $197 million annually by state hiring practices.

RESPONDING to the State Personnel Board's 1971 Ethnic Census of State Employees, the civil rights group described California as "the Mississippi of the West to the black community and the Texas of the West to the Chicano community."

In its report, the State Personnel Board said the number of state employees from minority groups increased by nearly 1,900 during the past two years.

Progress toward a "racially balanced work force" was made despite an overall decline of 2,100 in total state employment, the state study added.

But the civil rights groups said the state report "documents that blacks and Chicanos are generally employed at the lowest-level jobs and that the disparity in salaries between whites, blacks and Mexican-Americans has actually increased."

THEY SAID the disparity between white and black annual average salaries is $1,824 and that between whites and Mexican-Americans is $1,686.

The "Black and Brown Report" was prepared by the NAACP, Western Region; Mexican-American Legal Defense and Educational Fund, Inc.; and Public Advocates, Inc.

Welfare rolls up 17,000 over month

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California's welfare rolls increased by 17,000 recipients in February, a gain of about one per cent, state welfare chief Robert Carleson said Friday.

It was the first significant monthly increase in caseloads since Carleson started putting provisions of Gov. Reagan's welfare reforms into effect nearly a year ago.

Carleson said the total welfare caseload for February is expected to reach 2,135,500 when final figures are in from all 58 California counties. The increase amounts to just under eight-tenths of one per cent.

for welfare rather than subsisting on their own union's strike funds is now being considered by the Legislature," Carleson said, "and Gov. Reagan has requested congressional action in this area."

Carleson said the increase of 17,000 was the combined effect of a jump of 18,300 recipients receiving Aid to Families with Dependent Children, an increase of 500 adults receiving aid for the disabled and a drop of 1,800 recipients receiving Old Age Security.

He said the AFDC category for families with unemployed able-bodied men in the home increased by 9,500 recipients.

Carleson said the increase "is about what we've been predicting, although we thought it would happen a month earlier."

"THE important thing is that the savings gap is still growing between what is actually happening compared to what the Department of Social Welfare and the state's legislative analyst estimated would have happened without welfare reform," Carleson said.

He said total caseloads would be 551,651 recipients higher than the actual February figures if the massive reforms had not been undertaken.

Reagan explains 'tax lid' dream

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Gov. Reagan said Friday his dream as governor is to see California never has another state tax increase — unless the taxpayers approved it.

Reagan said the present state tax structure adds about eight per cent to the state government's revenues every year "just through normal growth in the economy."

"THE DREAM that I have is to have a tax structure in California in such a way that government's programs and expenditures come within that eight per cent so that you don't have to change the rules on the citizen every few years," he said.

"Then," Reagan said, "if you do think of something new . . . you can go to the people and say, 'here is the service we propose. The decision is up to you. Here is what it will cost and here's what the difference will be in the percentage of your earnings that we take to run government.'"

"If we could achieve that, so the citizen would know exactly what his obligation is going to be from here on out. I think my dream would have been very much worth it," the governor said.

Reagan spoke of his dreams and the accomplishments of his administration in a speech to some 250 members of the San Francisco Bond's Club at the Fairmont Hotel.

He said that in his more than five years as governor "I think we have proven that government can be different, that government can employ common sense." Reagan said his administration has been able to use business practices and attract people from the private sector who "are not bound by all the things that they've learned they can't do."

"THE RESULT is these people who are not empire builders have made a great contribution to what we've been trying to do in Sacramento," he said.

Reagan said his idea of putting the cost of new state services to the people could be used with his recent proposal for a $36 per year mandatory tax on wage earners for catastrophic insurance coverage.

"This insurance, he said, would take over where regular health insurance ends and would pay for health care for persons stricken with catastrophic illness or accidents for an unlimited time — and with no financial limit."

County aide questions proposal on adoptions

The chief of the Los Angeles County department of adoptions said Friday it would be morally wrong and financially difficult for taxpayers if public agencies took custody of more illegitimate children under a recent proposal.

Walter Heath said such a proposal "would be felt most by minority children and we always had difficulty in finding enough adoptive homes for black and brown children."

He was replying to a plan by the state social Welfare Board which would amend state law so that a woman bearing a third child out of wedlock or a girl under 17 bearing a child out of wedlock could be presumed unfit. Then the child could be taken away from her.

"I think there is a real need to improve our laws connected with providing for termination of parental control and custody of children," said Heath, "but the welfare board's suggestion isn't the right avenue."

He said the proposal could lead to a large number of children "being taken from their mothers, only to be brought up in foster homes at tremendous taxpayer expense and probably at great harm to the child. For the most part, these mothers do a good job. It is the exceptional one who does not."

Heath said it costs the county about $176 a month to provide for each child. A supervisor for the department of social services said the maximum increase in a welfare mother's monthly grant for a third child would be $45.

Knowledge on cancer not applied Needless loss of life cited

CLEARWATER BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Existing knowledge could cure two-thirds of Americans falling victim to cancer, the president of the American Cancer Society said Friday.

But instead, two-thirds of victims are dying because the knowledge is not being applied — knowledge ranging from mass screening and early detection techniques to the best surgery, the most effective radiation and drug treatments, said Dr. A. Hamblin Letton of Atlanta, Ga.

Letton cautioned that "a quick solution to all cancer is not at hand," despite the start this year of a new mobilization of effort under the Conquest of Cancer Act setting up a super agency to push cancer research and control.

"Much of the research iceberg remains submerged" with many puzzles surrounding cancer, Letton said at the opening of the 14th annual American Cancer Society seminar for science writers. About 50 cancer researchers will report new findings during the six-day meeting.

Letton said a past estimate that half of cancer victims might be saved through present knowledge "is outdated," and that most authorities agree the figure could be two out of three patients.

As an example, he said "we know that most of the 67,000 deaths a year from lung cancer could be prevented if its principal cause, cigarette smoking, were eliminated."

Letton estimated 6½ million Americans will develop cancer "in this decade" but said that — besides the one-third being cured now — an additional one million might be saved through "four task forces aimed at cancers of the lung, breast, colon and rectum, and uterus."

The task forces organized by the cancer society seek earlier detection and improved treatment of these cancers.

A fifth task force has the goal of detecting all forms of cancer earlier.

Better atom smashers on way; may aid cancer fight

STANFORD (AP) — Stanford University scientists have taken a major step toward the development of a new generation of atom smashers to probe the heart of the atom.

These new machines would be more efficient and less expensive and could be adapted to the treatment of cancer.

Physicists use atom smashers, or nuclear particle accelerators, to break up the nucleus or core of the atom. Their aim is to see what lies within and what forces hold it together.

In conventional accelerators, the physicists take nuclear particles, protons, and using magnets to pull the protons, hurl the protons around a ring. After they reach a desired speed, they aim them at a target particle and the collision produces a shower of particles for study.

Over the years, physicists have coaxed some of the atom's secrets out in their search for the ultimate nature of matter.

Stanford's new accelerator, under construction, employs the principle of superconductivity — that certain metals lose their resistance to electrical charges at low temperatures. This would make it easier and cheaper to accelerate the particles.

For the first time now, on Thursday, the Stanford Scientists successfully accelerated a beam of electrons, another nuclear particle, down the initial 20-foot section of their atom smasher.

The experiment took place in a tunnel carved beneath Stanford's palm and eucalyptus - dotted campus while the scientists monitored it from a control room above.

The feat marked a milestone in the development of the new machine, the parts of which are immersed in a liquid helium bath 455 degrees below zero to achieve the super-conductivity. Dr. Alan Schwettman said particles were accelerated to speeds close to the speed of light and with an energy of 17 million electron volts, a measure of the energy of the speeding particle.

The treatment of cancer becomes a possibility because an atom smasher can produce a certain kind of subnuclear particle called the pi meson. This particle would have the property of exploding in a tiny space and not affecting anything else in the immediate area.

The pi mesons could therefore be aimed at cancer cells, according to this idea, destroy the cell but not do any damage to the healthy cells nearby. Being able to do this inexpensively, relatively, would mean that for as little as $1 million, a hospital could build a pi meson machine.

Pi mesons are believed to be the "glue" that holds the nucleus of the atom together.

The success of the Stanford machine was seriously threatened just a year ago by problems with the superconducting parts and the complicated liquid helium system. But the physicists, whose bold gamble has been privately criticized by other members of the physics community, now say there is little doubt the machine will work.

Campaign pace gains steam in Wisconsin

Combined News Services

Sens. George S. McGovern and Henry M. Jackson and New York Mayor John V. Lindsay poliocticed through Wisconsin Friday in their underdog bids for the Democratic presidential nomination.

They were to be joined in the Badger State today by the two men jockeying for the lead, Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey and Edmund S. Muskie, as the campaign pace picked up for the nation's fourth presidential primary April 4.

Jackson assailed the Nixon administration for deciding behind closed doors to drop antitrust action against the International Telephone & Telegraph Co. He said Congress should step in to prevent secret settlements at high levels.

"CONGRESS cannot legislate integrity at the White House or the Department of Justice," the Washington Democrat said. "But it can insist on the kind of disclosure that will restore confidence in the integrity of decisions in critically important antitrust cases."

In Milwaukee, Lindsay said the Wisconsin test was "very critical to me," but that "whatever happens here, I will go on to Massachusetts and California." He conceded that a serious money shortage has forced a cutback in his radio and television campaigning.

"I'll do my best here and take stock when the dust settles," said Lindsay, who turned Democrat after serving both as a Republican and an independent. "How well anyone will do here or how well anyone should do is sheer guess."

McGOVERN of South Dakota worked his way southward from the northernmost part of Wisconsin, concentrating on university cities where he has the biggest following.

McGovern said at one Wisconsin news conference that "leadership failures" by liberals have allowed Alabama Gov. George Wallace to emerge as one of the contenders for the Democratic nomination.

For his part, Wallace criticized senators including his presidential opponents for failing to vote for tax relief, ending the Vietnam war and cutting back the Washington bureaucracy.

IN WASHINGTON, D.C., Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., said he did not rule out the possibility his close friend Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., might accept a draft as presidential candidate at the national convention in July.

Tunney, who earlier endorsed Muskie because he was convinced Kennedy meant what he said in ruling out his candidacy, said a Kennedy draft still rated as "highly unlikely."

Humphrey preceded his Wisconsin foray with a Friday swing through California.

The President's only remaining active opponent for the Republican nomination, Rep. John M. Ashbrook of Ohio, said in Cleveland he would drop his challenge if Nixon fired national security adviser Henry M. Kissinger and some other White House aides. Ashbrook has accused Nixon of betraying his conservative supporters.

Humphrey's guards goof

SACRAMENTO — "Hey, leave me alone, I'm a candidate for political office," said the long-haired young man as Secret Service agents and California state police whisked him from a Hubert Humphrey news conference Friday.

Asked his reaction to being pushed away from Humphrey, 22-year-old Michael Palcio of La Jolla said, "All I did was open my briefcase and say 'Lolok, no guns.'"

HHH wins over hostile students

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey went before an unruly, hostile audience of 1,000 law students Friday and talked them into courteous applause before he left.

The Minnesota senator was greeted by hisses, boos and shouted epithets when he arrived to address students at the UC Hastings College of Law.

He drew applause and some cheers at several points for his speech and for his answers, delivered in his customary rapid-fire delivery, to questions asked afterwards.

Humphrey was on a brief campaign swing in his quest for the Democratic presidential nomination in California, a state he narrowly lost in the 1968 general election.

Humphrey told news conferences in both Sacramento and San Francisco that busing ought to be used to improve the quality of education.

"I do not believe that massive, compulsory busing that has as its prime and sole purpose the achievement of racial balance on a quota system is helpful," Humphrey said. "In fact, I do not support it."

"I don't think you ought to put the whole system of racism in this country on the back of a child or a school bus," he said in San Francisco on a television program taped for showing Sunday.

Humphrey strolled through Fisherman's Wharf at lunch time, shaking hands with tourists and talking with fishermen about the problem of pollution in San Francisco Bay, which is destroying its crab fisheries.

Humphrey said the government ought to have "a sense of urgency" about pollution. "Rigid government" enforcement was needed, he said. "No company has the right to pollute these waters."

Attacking President Nixon's economic controls as "a fraud and a hoax," Humphrey said the Pay Board should not have cut the West Coast dock strike wage settlement.

'Poisons relations between races' Nixon, aide defend busing curb WASHINGTON — President Nixon and a Cabinet member Friday defended the administration proposal to limit school busing and to try to improve education for children from poor families. Democrats attacked it.

Nixon spoke at a news conference, where he said his proposed moratorium on court-ordered busing is constitutional.

He said forced busing "poisons relations between the races and creates racism."

HIS PROPOSAL to increase federal funding for schools in mostly black, inner-city schools may not work, Nixon said, adding:

"But I do know we cannot go on with the present system."

Elliot L. Richardson, secretary of health, education and welfare, appeared at a Senate hearing, where Democratic senators said the administration's plans represented an attempt to deceive the American people.

Richardson said an estimated 95 to 100 cases could be reopened under a provision of the administration bill allowing the reopening of cases in which busing already has been ordered.

He said it is fair to give districts under these old busing orders the right to seek to reopen them and to get the benefit of the same limits on busing that the bill would provide for future orders.

BUT HE estimated that most of the 95 to 100 would not have any grounds for reopening since their busing orders do not require more busing for desegregation purposes than was in effect before the busing was ordered.

The bill says that for grade school pupils no busing can be ordered in a desegregation case in excess of that which was in effect in the previous year. For high school students, such busing could be enforced only if there were no other remedy for the segregated situation.

Richardson said he believes the Charlotte, N.C., and Nashville, Tenn., cases could be reopened successfully because in both the new busing exceeds that previously in effect.

Richardson said compulsory education had failed too often in the past but that his department now had a way to make it work if Congress would grant the needed authority to rearrange present programs.

He declared emphatically that Nixon supports equal educational opportunity even if that means some busing.

Richardson appeared before the Education subcommittee on a bill to put stringent controls of the type of busing that could be ordered in desegregation cases and change present programs so that the administration could spend $2.5 billion already voted by Congress to improve education for underprivileged children.

Hearings called on Detroit busing plan

DETROIT (UPI) — Despite a Justice Department request to delay action in the Detroit school integration case, U.S. District Court Judge Stephen Roth Friday scheduled hearings on cross-busing plans to include schools in Detroit and suburban school districts.

Roth agreed to consider the Metropolitan School District plans less than 24 hours after the Justice Department asked him late Thursday to delay action until Congress acts on President Nixon's proposed moratorium on court-ordered busing.

He did not take formal action on the Justice Department's motion to intervene in the case. The judge found last September that Detroit schools are segregated.

In deciding to go ahead with consideration of cross-district plans, Roth said: "It is proper for the court to consider metropolitan plans directed toward the desegregation of the Detroit public schools as an alternative to the present intracity desegregation plans."

Roth said he is of the opinion that the court "is required" to consider cross-district plans if it can be shown that a plan involving only Detroit schools, now 65 per cent black, cannot properly integrate classes.

Sen. Robert P. Griffin said he was told the Justice Department would "intervene in Detroit and Grand Rapids desegregation cases if it appears that the district courts are about to issue orders A8 requiring busing."

Some of the metropolitan plans call for massive busing of school students between Detroit and suburban school districts. In other plans, busing is not mentioned at all.

This week, Roth completed taking testimony on those integration plans which only involve Detroit schools. But he has taken no action on any plan and has eight different cross-district plans to consider.

SEN. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., told the secretary the subcommittee had been given "hypocritical hogwash which is the sum and substance of more than half of your testimony."

"These proposals are designed to deceive the Congress and the public into thinking you have a bold new program to do something you already have the authority to do and haven't done in the three years of this administration," Eagleton said.

While the subcommittee was in session, a freshman Republican, Lowell P. Weicker, Conn., took the Senate floor to denounce the Nixon proposals and to announce he would help defeat them.

Just as did the Democrats, he said an attempt was being made to give the impression there was a new $2.5 billion program.

At issue in the dispute over the money is Title I of the 1965 Elementary and Secondary Education Act.

This money has been designated for the sort of underprivileged children Nixon said in his message to Congress last Monday that he wanted to help.

Judge says U.S. racist in Alabama

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — A federal judge said Friday that several federal agencies operating in Alabama have flagrant racially discriminatory hiring practices.

District Judge Frank M. Johnson said the evidence of discrimination was "unexplained and undisputed."

Johnson took no action, other than to list the number of blacks working for several federal agencies. He said any action would have to be taken by a proper forum.

Johnson made the observation in an order granting attorneys for black plaintiffs attorneys fees in a suit that resulted in a directive to integrate the all-white state trooper force.

Harrisburg 7 trial defense won't offer any

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Rev. Philip Berrigan and his six codefendants abruptly rested their defense on antiwar conspiracy charges Friday, without a word of testimony or a single witness. Their decision was the result of a narrow 4-3 vote among themselves.

"It demonstrates we can never possibly be conspirators because we can never agree," one of the defendants, Rev. Neil McLaughlin, told a news conference afterwards.

The vote was taken Thursday night within hours after the government ended nearly five weeks of testimony. Those disagreeing, and wishing to proceed with a defense were Berrigan, Sister Elizabeth McAlister and Egbal Ahmad, a Pakistani Moslem and the only non-Catholic in the group.

VOTING to place their fate in the hands of the jury without defense testimony were McLaughlin; Rev. Joseph Wenderoth; and Anthony Scoblick, a former priest, and his wife, Mary Cain Scoblick, a former nun.

"What part did your attorneys play in it," Sister McAlister was asked in reference to the decision.

"The part our attorneys played in it was merely to look at the case the government put on and open the options to us and say this has to be your decision," she replied.

The defendants said they had proceeded throughout the case on the basis of arriving at decisions by majority vote.

THE dramatic no-defense decision by the antiwar defendants came as their trial reached the end of its ninth week.

U.S. District Court Judge R. Dixon Herman scheduled final arguments in the case for Monday, after which it goes to the jury of nine women and three men.

Meanwhile, the defense action came almost on the eve of a demonstration in which sympathizers hoped to mobilize as many as 15,000 persons from across the nation for a Holy Week show of support for the defendants.

At a news conference, the defendants said the demonstration would go on as planned.

The so-called Harrisburg 7 are accused of conspiring to kidnap presidential aide Henry Kissinger, to blow up heating tunnels in Washington, D.C., and to vandalize draft boards in nine states as a show of protest against the war in Southeast Asia.

THE JURY was out of the courtroom for most of the day while defense attorneys argued a motion for a directed verdict of acquittal.

Herman eventually took the motion under advisement, then brought the jurors into the courtroom to hear arguments opening the defense case.

The jurors filed in, obviously unaware of what was coming. Not even Herman showed any foreknowledge. He apologized to the panel for keeping them waiting outside for so long.

Then he signaled the defense table to proceed.

Former Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark, a defense attorney, pulled his lean 6-foot-3 frame erect and addressed the court.

"The defendants will always seek peace," Clark said, "and they rest their case."

ONE BY one, the other five defense lawyers, echoed Clark's "We rest, your honor."

Berrigan, 48, then arose and told Herman:

"Since I have discharged my lawyers, I rest my own case."

The reference was to Berrigan's insistence at the outset of testimony that he act as his own lawyer. However, Herman had to turn him down when he requested the privilege Feb. 21.

"I must say I'm somewhat surprised," said deputy assistant Atty. Gen. William Lynch, who has spent almost a year preparing the case against Berrigan and the others.

During the argument for a directed acquittal verdict, lawyers for the seven defendants contended that their various individual ideas for antiwar protest were converted by FBI informer Boyd Douglas Jr. into the semblance of an overall agreement — including a scheme to kidnap presidential aide Henry Kissinger.

During an exchange, Clark, attorney general under President Lyndon B. Johnson, told Herman: "I'm shocked that the United States government would present such flimsy evidence following such serious charges. If the government's evidence had been given to me while I was attorney general, I would have never permitted it to go to the grand jury. Your honor, you should enter a judgment of acquittal."

"I would just like to call attention that Mr. Clark was the attorney general who approved the Spock indictments," replied Lynch, who served under Clark during his tenure.

In moving for dismissal of the conspiracy case against Berrigan and the others, the defense argued that Douglas kept alive a proposal to kidnap Kissinger.

"There was an idea," Boudin said. "The thought was percolating. But if the thought was percolating, it was at a rather low heat until the boiling point arrived — and the boiling point was Boyd Douglas."

"Douglas is a transitional point between the realm of ideas and the realm of agreement."

Douglas, a paid FBI informer, was the government's star witness in the case.

The government rested its case Thursday afternoon, as the ninth week of the trial drew toward a close.

Douglas, 31, and Berrigan were fellow inmates at the Lewisburg, Pa., federal penitentiary, where Berrigan was serving a six-year term for destroying draft records. Douglas served as a mail courier for the militant antiwar priest.

However, Douglas copied letter exchanges. In one, Berrigan's opinion was sought by codefendant Sister Elizabeth McAlister, on the proposal to kidnap Kissinger. Douglas turned his copies over to the FBI.

The government's case rests almost entirely on the letters, backed by Douglas's testimony.

The defense has denied any conspiracy. The defense claims Douglas served as an agent provocateur for the FBI in provoking the defendants into a series of individual acts that the government then wove together as the basis of its charges.

Referring to draft board raids in early arguments Friday, Boudin said that it could not be stated that there was a general agreement to engage in a conspiracy to raid draft boards.

"The only contact with the outside world Father Philip Berrigan had," Boudin declared, "was Boyd Douglas. He was the only link with Sister Elizabeth McAlister. Without him, nothing could have happened. . . . Douglas is the creative man in this whole picture."

Chaplain accuser called 'troubled'

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — A Navy lieutenant told the court-martial panel trying Cmdr. Andrew F. Jensen on adultery charges that he did not see anything unprofessional in Jensen's conduct while they both served as chaplains at the same base.

Jensen, 43, has been accused by two Navy wives of having sexual relations with them since he began serving as a chaplain at Cecil Field Naval Air Station there.

Lt. Robert L. Hubbard of Key Port, Wash., testified Friday that he respected Jensen as a clergyman and is a Navy officer.

"I SAW nothing unprofessional or immoral in Chaplain Jensen's conduct, and that goes for his parishioners as well," Hubbard testified.

In the 1970-71 period he served at Cecil Field, Hubbard said he knew Lora Gudbranson as a regular in attendance at chapel services and a frequent midweek visitor. Mrs. Gudbranson is one of the women who claims she had sexual relations with Jensen.

An earlier witness and former chaplain, the Rev. Joseph C. Simpson, had testified Mrs. Gudbranson once ran her hand slowly from his shoulder to his waist and put two fingers inside the belt while giving him a smile and lowering her head.

Hubbard said she never touched him in a seductive way and had a high character as far as he could tell.

He said he considered Mary Ann Curran "a troubled person who was sorting out her beliefs."

Mrs. Curran, a 24-year-old pretty blonde, testified early in the trial she had sexual relations with Jensen on 17 occasions she could detail.

"She had an unhappy childhood," Hubbard testified. "She was raised a Catholic, but took communion as a Protestant — a significant step for her — and was thinking of being baptized as a Protestant."

MARTHA CARCABA, whose husband is commander of an attack squadron which moved last June from Cecil Field to Lemoore Naval Air Station in California, testified she was a close friend and neighbor of the Jensens here.

She said nearly every night and morning when she let her two dogs out of the house for a run she noticed Jensen's car in his driveway.

She testified she came home from a campground at Camp Blanding about 8 p.m. or 9 p.m. on Aug. 21, 1970, and to her recollection Jensen's car was there.

Odd sizes, shapes to boot

She's surrounded by mystery shoes

MILAN, Mich. — There is a woman who lives in a house surrounded by so many shoes she does not know what to do.

That's not exactly the way the children's rhyme goes but it sums up the situation that confronts Lella Begley of rural London Township, about 80 miles from Detroit.

The mother of six children finds her life just full of shoes, shoes and more shoes.

"I just don't know where they bring the shoes from," she said Friday as she contemplated the piles of thousands of shoes on her property.

There are singles and pairs of footwear, including tennis, baseball and fancy shoes, ski boots, ice skates and just about every kind of footwear one could imagine.

Not even the Michigan State Police nor the officials of London Township have the foggiest idea where the flood of shoes originates. The police are investigating.

One pile is 3 feet high, 50 yards long and 10 to 15 yards wide. Other piles are building up in wooded areas out of sight of the Begley family's little home.

Mrs. Begley's husband left home about a year ago.

The shoe mystery started a year ago when a man stopped at the Begley house and asked if he could dump his old shoes on an isolated part of her property.

"I didn't ask who he was or where he got them — I didn't want to be nosy," she recalled.

Since then truckloads of shoes have been dumped on her property. Some of them are obviously worn out, most pairs are not evenly matched in size.

The biggest percentage of the shoes are new and are wearable, she said.

At first, when passers-by spotted the huge field of shoes and stopped to rummage around, Mrs. Begley gave them permission. Later she started charging $2 for permission to search through the piles.

"I had to put a stop to that, though, for they tramped through my strawberry patch and tossed shoes all around," the farm wife said, adding, "I was afraid they would toss a cigarette and start a fire in my woods."

By ED ZUCKERMAN
From Our National Bureau

WASHINGTON — Most of the $57.9 million which the U.S. Steel Co. said it paid last year in "federal and foreign" income taxes may have gone to Venezuela, it was disclosed Friday.

The report came from an aide to Rep. Charles Vanik, D-Ohio, who said he learned that of the $57.9 million, more than $48 million was paid to foreign governments with most of it going to the South American country. He identified his source only as a "U.S. Steel executive in Pittsburgh."

A company spokesman in Washington, asked to comment on the unofficial report, admitted that his firm paid a substantial amount of taxes to Venezuela. He was unable to furnish exact details on how much money went aboard and how much was paid to the federal government.

"WE'RE NOT giving out a breakdown," he said. "All we're saying is that we paid a substantial amount to Venezuela."

Under federal statutes, amounts paid in corporate taxes to foreign governments are subtracted from amounts owed to the U.S. government.

The controversy over the steel company's tax bill erupted earlier this week when Vanik, a member of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, said the company paid no taxes to the federal government last year. He based his information on the company's annual report to its stockholders.

In rebuttal, the company said it paid the $57.9 million in "federal and foreign" income taxes. Again, it would not provide any breakdown of figures.

THE STEEL company operates, as a wholly owned subsidiary, the Orinoco Mining Co. in Venezuela. Considered one of the world's largest mining operations, the South American ore lode was discovered in the late 1940s and production began in the early 1950s.

Another principle foreign subsidiary is the Quebec Cartier Mining Co. in Canada. The company also owns partial interests in mining companies in France, Gabon, South Africa, Brazil and Indonesia.

In its 1971 stockholders report, the company revealed that it was not necessary to set aside funds for 1971 income taxes. An explanatory statement said there was no requirement due to statutory deductions "associated with mineral production and investment credits."

The company spokesman, however, noted that the report also shows that the firm is holding $264.6 million in reserve for taxes. No funds were set aside for taxes, he explained, because the company felt it was holding sufficient amounts in reserve.

A DETAILED accounting of the tax reserve fund, also printed in the annual report, reveals that the company had $289.2 million set aside for "U.S. and foreign" income taxes at the beginning of the year. During 1971, it shows a $57.9 million withdrawal from the account.

The explanatory statement, however, suggests that that amount, presumably deposited with "U.S. and federal" governments, will eventually be refunded to the company. "Estimated U.S. and foreign taxes on income payable for the year 1971 of $57.9 million are offset by deferred tax credits of a like amount," it said.

Vanik, earlier this week, did not dispute U.S. Steel's contention that it made tax payments during the year.

"The question," he said, "is did they get it back? It is a common corporate practice to deposit estimated taxes with the government and then get a refund, with interest, at the end of the year."

THE OHIO Democrat, a champion of tax reform legislation, asked the House-Senate Joint Economic Committee to study the nation's 500 largest corporations to determine how much corporate taxes are being paid.

He later said that his own office will attempt to conduct such a study.

However, because regulations which set accounting standards for annual reports are scanty, the task is almost impossible.

The Vanik aide said a letter has been sent to William Casey, chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC), urging more stringent reporting guidelines.

"IN REVIEWING corporation reports for 1971, I am completely amazed at the conflict and disparity I find in them," Vanik wrote. "Under the category of income taxes paid or estimated to be paid, some reports include local property taxes, sales taxes, state taxes, unemployment taxes, workmen's compensation taxes, taxes paid to foreign governments and federal taxes."

"It is absolutely indefensible to permit this confusion by lumping together this essential information."

"Obviously, the purpose in this kind of financial reporting is to conceal from the American public how little is being paid to the federal treasury."

Price panel comes under heavy fire

CHICAGO — Consumer representatives, public officials, business and banking representatives told the Price Commission on Friday that they are dissatisfied with its control regulations.

The consumer representatives were, perhaps, the most vitriolic during presentations at a day of hearings before the commission.

"The Price Commission is as guilty of deceptive advertising as any of the more notorious Madison Avenue offenders," said Lynn Mills, executive director of the Consumer Federation of Illinois. "The consumer is simply not getting what he was led to believe he could expect. It (the Price Commission) . . . is a sham."

Miss Mills recommended that consumers be represented on the commission and take part in basic decision making.

Three members of the Wisconsin Consumers League agreed, though they disputed Miss Mills' accusations.

"I still have confidence in the program," said Camiel Hanney, who is also consumer coordinator for the Wisconsin attorney general. "I don't think it is a sham."

"We've said to the consumer 'Try it, you'll like it.' They tried it and they don't like it," she continued. "What the consumer thinks is happening is just as important as what is happening."

The consumer representatives dominated the hearings and highly criticized the commission's ruling which controls price increases over a company's aggregate volume. As a result, they argued, prices for certain items could be significantly increased without violating the regulations.

Commission chairman C. Grayson Jackson said the purpose of the hearing was to seek reaction from various sectors of the economy on the effectiveness of the price control program.

Clinton Warne, professor of economics at Cleveland State University, suggested that some distributors are skirting the regulations by deceptive bottling and packaging procedures.

Rep. Frank Annunzio, D-Ill., opened the testimony, telling the commission to control mounting food prices or see supermarkets boycotted by irate housewives.

Others testifying were representatives of the Illinois Retail Merchants Association, the Chicago Federation of Labor, the First Chicago Corp., the National Association of Enrolled Federal Tax Accountants, and economists from Northwestern and Loyola universities.

Dead woman feared slain

The body of Irene McGary, 54, was found Friday in her El Monte home by her husband, Patrick, 55, police said.

The body lay in a pool of blood and authorities said Mrs. McGary may have been slain.

McGary and the couple's daughter were asleep in another part of the house before the wife's death was discovered, police said.

NIXON TO ACT ON FOOD COSTS

York a breakfast of two eggs costs $5, "or $30 a dozen," Nixon said.

"We are going to get at that middleman one way or another," he declared.

On other major points:

Busing — Nixon said he believed his proposed moratorium on court-ordered busing is constitutional and "will be so held by the Supreme Court." He also agreed that his proposal to sharply increase federal funding for mostly black inner city schools — the so-called "compensatory education" approach — has not been fully tested and "I'm not sure it will work."

"But I do know we cannot go on with the present system," Nixon said, contending that forced busing "poisons relations between the races and creates racism."

On a related subject, Nixon said it was difficult to find new programs to break up segregated housing patterns and observed: "You cannot put the primary burden on breaking up these patterns on the educational system."

China — Nixon declined to discuss specifically whether his talks with Chinese Premier Chou En-lai dealt with the Vietnam war. But he said the current negotiations with the Chinese in Paris "are going very well." This discussion brought up the name of Ambassador Arthur Watson, the subject of a recent Anderson column which alleged the ambassador "got gloriously drunk" on a flight to Washington from Paris.

Nixon drew a laugh when he said Watson was conducting the talks in "total sobriety." He observed that the issue of the ambassador's alleged drinking have been raised in the news media and in Congress. "People in glass houses shouldn't throw stones," he observed.

Marijuana — Nixon repeated that he opposes the legalization of the use of marijuana. Referring to a presidential commission's recommendation this week that criminal penalties for the private use of marijuana should be dropped, Nixon said it is not possible to have an effective system of criminal justice when something is "half legal and half illegal."

Politics — The chief executive turned aside questions on politics, saying again that he did not intend to participate in partisan politics until after the Republican National Convention. But he did say that his views on a running mate have not changed since January when he

ATLANTA (UPI) — Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz said Friday "the price of steak is about where it ought to be."

Following an address to a regional conference of Republican women, Butz told newsmen, "at the present price those of us who want it can buy it and there is plenty to go around."

He said in a nationally televised interview that he saw a reason to break up a winning combination by dumping Vice President Agnew from the ticket.

George Meany — In discussing the resignations this week of AFL-CIO president George Meany and three other union leaders from the Pay Board, the President mixed praise and criticism for the crusty union chief.

He hailed Meany as "a patriotic American" who has supported the nation's national security needs when some "weak-spined" business leaders were "ready to throw in the sponge."

But he said that a great number of the members of Meany's union support the administration's economic stabilization measures.

Vietnam buildup — The President said "an ominous enemy buildup continues in Indochina" but that he had received a report from U.S. officials in Vietnam that the South Vietnamese should be able to contain any dry-season onslaught by the Communists. The South Vietnamese lines "may bend, but will not break," the President said, adding that this would be "final proof" that his Vietnamization program has succeeded.

ITT 'FAVOR' DENIED

President can spare further embarrassment — not just to his administration, but to all of our institutions of self-government, by withdrawing the nomination of Mr. Kleindienst."

The Americans for Democratic Action also asked the Senate to reject Kleindienst's nomination. In a letter to the Judiciary Committee, Chairman Alard Lowenstein said: "As the stain of the ITT case continues to grow, one fact remains proven: that Richard G. Kleindienst had previously denied he had been involved in the case when in fact he was."

But Sen. Edward J. Gurney, R-Fla., defended Kleindienst and contended there was not "a shred of evidence that there was any impropriety by the Justice Department in the settlement of the antitrust cases against ITT."

Gurney, a member of the Judiciary Committee, charged that "the Democrats are stalling and prolonging the hearings by asking the same questions over and over again. A great deal of politics is going on in these hearings."

NORTH IRISH PROTEST

and internment without trial of suspected members of the outlawed Irish Republican Army, which seeks to force withdrawal of the British from Northern Ireland and unify the province with the Irish Republic.

Craig, a former home affairs minister and now head of the militant Protestant Ulster Vanguard Movement, said Heath's decision had pushed the province to the brink of a civil war that would pit Protestants against both Catholics and the British.

"Ulster is closer to civil war today than it was yesterday," said Craig. He told a news conference that defense organizations will be formed to protect Protestant neighborhoods and members would have to be armed in some cases.

Craig called a two-day strike he said would bring out 185,000 Protestant workers Monday and Tuesday in a first move against the British government plan.

"We have the power to make government (by Britain) in this country impossible, and we will continue to use such force as necessary to bring that about," Craig said.

BOTH THE official and more militant provisional wings of the IRA pledged to continue their battle to unify Ulster and the Irish Republic. Other Catholics warned of violent Protestant response to Heath's decision to suspend half a century of home rule.

"There will be massive Protestant reaction," said McMann, an official of an organization that opposes the internment program. He predicted 1,000 victims this summer.

Protestant workers in stores and offices quit their posts and screamed support from rooftops and sidewalks for the marchers in Belfast. Crowds of Protestant office workers ranged in groups of up to 50 through Belfast streets bearing British Union Jack flags and choring: "Heath out, Faulkner in."

Faulkner appealed for calm but said he feared the Heath measures would demonstrate to sectarian extremists "that violence can pay, that violence does pay, that those who shoot, lie and denigrate and even destroy earn for themselves an attention that responsible conduct and honorable behavior do not."

AT 3:20 P.M., the first bomb following Heath's announcement smashed a gasoline station near the Roman Catholic Grosvenor Road district of Belfast, the army said. An army spokesman said doctors at hospitals treated 13 persons for shock from the bomb, which was left in a stolen car by two men who fled.

In Londonderry, a nail bomb injured one soldier and one civilian, the army said.

Sean MacStiofain, provisional IRA chief of staff, and Cathal Goulding, official IRA chief of staff, said they would continue to fight.

"Our operations will continue until there is a complete withdrawal of British troops from the streets of Northern Ireland," MacStiofain said.

Abolition of Ulster's Parliament "will bring a new confrontation to a head," MacStiofain said, and direct British rule "will make it clear to the Irish people who the real enemy is."

Pioneer 10 adjustment successful

MOUNTAIN VIEW (UPI) — Ground controllers Friday completed a two - part mid - course correction of the Pioneer 10 spacecraft on its 620-million-mile journey to Jupiter, and said it apparently went successfully.

"We won't know for sure how well we did until we've done some tracking," a spokesman at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration Flight Control Center here said. "But the burn was the right length."

Flight directors Thursday made the first part of the course correction, a 34-second "burn" of the guidance rockets. The second came at 6 a.m. EST Friday.

TOGETHER, they changed the Pioneer 10's velocity one meter per second, so that it will get to Jupiter 2½ hours later and slip behind the planet's orange moon, Io, the most reflective object in the solar system.

Pioneer 10, the fastest satellite in history and the first intended to escape the gravitational pull of the sun, was launched March 2. It is to reach Jupiter in December 1973.

The NASA spokesman also said 10 of the spacecraft's 11 instruments have been turned on and were "returning good data."

Pioneer will carry out a 20 - hour rendezvous with Jupiter, and if all goes well, will send back pictures of the planet and measure its brightness and reflected sunlight.

THE U.S. NAVY COMMITS BODIES OF TWO COMRADES TO SEA

Ancient tradition kept alive as Navy buries two at sea

By DENISE KUSEL
Staff Writer

To a Viking, the only honorable way to be buried was at sea — set adrift in a small boat.

American seamen, ever conscious of tradition, cherish the ancient custom of burial at sea.

Chief Gunner's Mate Earl Macki, USN, ret., and Chief Quartermaster Charles F. Sterzick, USN, ret., following the Viking tradition, were buried at sea Friday with full military honors.

The crew aboard the USS Berkeley stood at attention on the fantail of the destroyer as the double ceremony began.

The hum of the ship's engines was as quiet and calm as the gentle swells in the brilliant blue water.

A lone seagull flew vigil to the aft portside of the vessel.

At 10:27 a.m. the command was given for "all hands bury the dead."

Navy Chaplain Marion W. McCoy offered brief prayers for Chief Macki and Chief Sterzick — and the bodies were committed to the deep.

Fifteen minutes later, after two eight-gun salutes — three volleys for each man — a trail of flowers floated calmly in the wake of the 417-foot vessel.

A few minutes later, the ship's bow was turned toward Long Beach, and the flowers disappeared.

The immediate families of both men were aboard to witness the ceremony.

Chief Macki died last week at Long Beach Naval Hospital. He was 69.

He began his 25-year naval career in 1923 and served aboard the USS Nevada during the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor. He was the only survivor of seven men who operated antiaircraft guns against the Japanese planes.

"It was my husband's last wish to be buried at sea," Mrs. Macki said. "Each individual involved with the ceremony accorded me much kindness. It bears out the Navy tradition — the Navy cares for its own."

Anything goes in I.P-T student ads

They're all for sale.

A one-man raft, orthodontic bands, a five-speed bike, guinea pigs, 40 young Mallard ducks, a 6-year-old pony . . . and much, much more.

They're all in the 7th annual Free Students Ads in today's and Sunday's Independent, Press-Telegram classified sections.

Alan wants to buy "any old penny banks." Janice is looking for a Spanish typewriter, while Joel and Mano, both 11, "will cut your lawn and water it and we will wash your cars" — but they won't start until summer.

These are only a few of the ads in the big annual student buying and selling spree. The ads were written by students from elementary through high school grades.

And there is a hint of drama behind many of the ads, especially the following:

"Beginner drums for sale, $75. Includes floor tom side tom 14" symbol & base. Also high hat. Good cond. Dave, age 14 . . ."

3 STORES DUE FOR BUFFUMS'

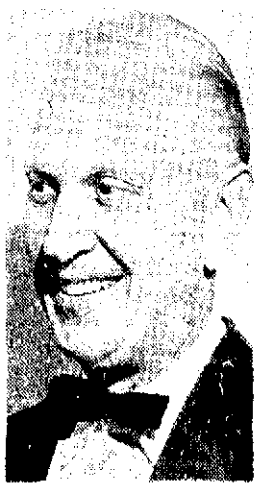

Three new Buffums' department stores, including two in Orange County, will be built during the next three years, the store chain's board of directors announced in Long Beach Friday.

Construction will begin this fall on a 53,000-square-foot store in Laguna Hills just off the San Diego Freeway in Orange County.

Another store will be opened in Arcadia in mid-1974 and the third new store will be located somewhere on the coast in Orange County.

VAILE G. Young, chairman and chief executive officer of the Buffums' board of directors, said the three stores would cost $110 million and should add $112 to $118 million in annual sales to the store chain.

He said that the expansion was made possible by "improving operating results" of the company and an upturn forecast for the

Signal demanded at intersection

Traffic death sparks protest

By JAMES LEAVY
Staff Writer

The traffic death of a 9-year-old girl, at an intersection in northeast Long Beach, has touched off a demonstration by neighborhood residents who are demanding the city install a traffic signal at the corner.

About 100 persons, most of them children, were stationed at the intersection of Woodruff Avenue and Harco Street Thursday and Friday during peak traffic periods in the late afternoon and early evening.

They carried signs urging motorists to "Save Our Life" and "Stop Killing." Groups of children hauled the signs across Woodruff Avenue where Harco dead-ends while others shouted, "Slow down" at passing motorists.

AT TIMES traffic piled up at the crosswalk in front of Woodruff Community Hospital. Late Thursday, Long Beach police removed road flares which had been placed around the intersection by demonstrators.

One man held a large sign which said: "A 9-year-old girl I loved was killed here last night. Why?"

He was referring to Dawn Ann Huff of 3762 Albury St. who died Wednesday night. Police said the child ran into Woodruff Avenue on the crosswalk and was struck by a south-bound car. The little girl was carrying a flashlight when she was struck. The driver of the car was not cited, police said.

"We've been trying to get some kind of traffic control here for 10 years," Herman Dillender, of 5804 Harco St., said.

"It's a regular race track," he said, pointing to the stretch of Woodruff Avenue between Carson and Conant streets.

John Christensen, administrator of Woodruff Community Hospital which is on the east side of Woodruff, said about 300 hospital employees last year signed a petition for a traffic light.

He said the city came out and painted the curbs red.

Christensen said his employees and hospital visitors have a difficult time getting in and out of the parking lot.

The hospital is in an island of county property and part of the intersection is under control of the county and part in the City of Long Beach.

City Manager John Mansell said late Friday he would meet with county traffic officials Monday to review a report on the intersection provided by city traffic engineer S. Spitz.

Take fight to Chancellor CSLB faculty rebels over suspension case

By TOM WILLMAN
Staff Writer

The recommendation of President Stephen Horn to suspend a professor at California State College Long Beach, on disciplinary grounds will be challenged by the campus' Academic Senate.

In a special meeting Friday afternoon marked by disputes, confusion and criticism of Horn, faculty senators authorized their leaders to "transmit appropriate materials" to Chancellor Glenn S. Dumke as reason for leniency in the case of Dr. James Noguera.

The materials are expected to include charges that the case was mishandled by Horn's administration.

Senators also voted to ask that transcripts of the discipline hearing be made public—with consent of Noguera and his exonerated codefendant, Dr. Jose Marin — and to begin a study of ways to "modify or replace" system-wide faculty discipline guidelines.

A MOTION BY Sen. Bob Rogers, graduate history student, to censure Horn for his handling of the discipline case failed to draw the support of a second. The senate also declined to consider English Prof. David Samuelson's proposal to "explore the possibility of disciplinary action against the President."

But senators generally reached new heights of criticism against Horn and Dumke's Executive Order 113, the discipline guidelines under which Noguera and Marin were charged with issuing grades to a nonstudent.

A minority of educators, including Letters and Science Dean Jerome Manheim, counseled the Senate to concentrate discussion on the suspension of Noguera "and not just with future events," and with the discipline codes.

Faculty dissatisfaction with Horn — who did not attend Friday's meeting — and with discipline codes has apparently grown steadily since the Noguera-Marin case became known about three months ago.

In announcing his decision in the case Monday, Horn issued two statements of his position, totaling more than 20 pages, to each faculty member at the college.

Much of the meeting's wide-ranging criticism concerned the statements.

"There has never been any document like this in the history of the campus," said English Prof. Ronald Foote. "It was in everybody's mail box (Monday), signed Dear Colleague."

Dr. Blaze Bonazza termed Horn's statements "false and misleading" in a number of details. "The propaganda effort of the president's report was to (show) that a jury of Mr. Noguera's peers had found him guilty. . . ." he said.

Senators also spent much of the meeting debating the meaning of clauses in the complex discipline codes.

City's auditor raps oil firm

By DON BRACKENBURY
Staff Writer

City Auditor Murray T. Courson objected Friday to Mobil Oil Corp. transferring oil equipment from one of its abandoned projects to a Long Beach production unit and charging it for 75 per cent of the cost of the equipment new.

Courson said it would be "more equitable" if the Long Beach operation were charged about 10 per cent of the current new value.

The item involves six pumping units and four motors, for which Mobil is billing the local units about $30,000.

Courson's comments came as part of the recommendations in the annual audit for fiscal 1970-71 of Mobil Oil Corp. as the unit operator for Segment 11 of Fault Blocks IV and V.

THE AUDIT covers operation and maintenance of 411 oil wells and 76 water-injection wells in Fault Blocks IV and V, which primarily involve the upland oil field around the Long Beach Inner Harbor.

When Mobil Oil Corp. transferred the pumping units and motors from its abandoned Potrero Area operations to Long Beach, Courson said, his office initially contended the action was unwarranted because comparable equipment was available in the local inventory.

Company officials said, however, the local equipment is unusable.

Although there is a policy to use 75 per cent of current new value as the basis for valuing materials within local units, Courson said, his office believes this was done to establish a uniform system for charging such equipment.

It was not intended for the purchase of operator-owned surplus equipment originating outside the Wilmington Oil Field, the audit said.

COURSON said other Wilmington Oil Field audits indicate the actual market value of used pumping units and motors is "considerably less" than 75 per cent of current new value. He said Mobil Oil Corp. has sold surplus pumping units belonging to Fault Block IV and V participants for "less than $500."

The audit also said Courson's staff knows of "numerous sales" of pumping units and motors by other Wilmington Oil Field operators for "substantially less" than what Mobil is charging.

Women unit to discuss charter

Proposed changes in the Long Beach City Charter will be discussed at a Downtown Neighborhood Council meeting April 7 at 7:30 p.m. in the Edison High School auditorium, 625 Maine Ave.

The League of Women Voters has been invited to discuss both sides of the seven charter changes which will be on the ballot in the May 9 elections. The meeting is open to the public.

'Tales from the Crypt' a horror for Joan Collins

By PHIL THOMAS

NEW YORK (AP) — Bashing her film husband over the head with a poker "really isn't my scene," actress Joan Collins says wryly of her first, and she claims, her last horror movie.

Miss Collins, who looks lovely as she calmly commits bloody murder in one of the five segments making up "Tales from the Crypt," described her part in the film as "murdering my husband and then running around looking frightened while being attacked by a homicidal maniac wearing a Santa Claus suit. Good, clean simple fun!"

The attractive actress says, "I'd much rather be on television, which in England is very good. Actually I do appear on TV with monotonous regularity." Miss Collins who began acting at 16, has played in "Run for Your Life," and "The Man from U.N.C.L.E."

Her movie credits include: "The Virgin Queen," "The Girl on the Red Velvet Swing," "Island in the Sun," and "Rally Round the Flag, Boys."

The sport's beat

Bill Brown, as sportswriter Oscar Madison, enjoys company of Elizabeth Manzanarez, left, and Charlene Kase in "The Odd Couple," the Neil Simon comedy which will have four performances in L.B. Auditorium April 6-9 for L.B. Retarded Children's Foundation.

SEX QUEEN RAQUEL VOWS TO REALLY ACT ON SKATES

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Raquel Welch broke her arm rehearsing for her new movie and may fracture other limbs in her pursuit of stardom in "The Kansas City Bomber" playing a professional roller skate queen.

"MGM has set up a special racing track for me on a sound stage," she said. "It's the same one we'll take to Portland where all the skating scenes will be shot."

Although amply endowed in the padding department, to protect herself in the rough and tumble of competitive roller skating her thighs, elbows and knees will be heavily wrapped.

"I was skating off and on for six months before I had the accident," Raquel said, explaining how she fell and broke her arm. "Even though my broken arm has held up production for more than a month," she said, "it was the best thing that could have happened. I'll be falling a half dozen times in a two-hour period. It's a matter of learning how to fall without hurting yourself."

"It gives me the opportunity to do some acting," she said. "I know people don't think of me as an actress as much as they do a, well, sex queen. But I'll be doing my best."

As a guide to moviegoers this newspaper lists capsule contents of major motion pictures playing the Long Beach area. Most classifications represent the judgment of the Film Board of National Organizations.

THE GODFATHER — Marlon Brando stars as Don Vito Corleone, the Godfather, in this adaptation of Mario Puzo's best-selling novel of an underworld family. (R).

WHAT'S UP, DOC? — The high-spirited comedy adventures of eccentric Barbra Streisand and vague, bespectacled Ryan O'Neal at a musicologists' convention in San Francisco. (G).

THE BOY FRIEND — Twiggy shines in this handsomely expanded adaptation of the long-running musical that spoofed stage hits of the 1920s and '30s. (G).

THE BISCUIT EATER — Walt Disney Production's story of two Tennessee youngsters' efforts to turn a misfit dog into a champion pointer. With Earl Holliman and Lew Ayres. (G).

THE HOT ROCK — Robert Redford, George Segal and Zero Mostel in the drama-comedy of a gang of thieves who steal a huge diamond in New York. (GP).

TALES FROM THE CRYPT — Horror-suspense. Sir Ralph Richardson portrays a crypt-keeper who provides the characters in each tale with terrifying glimpses of what is in store for them. With Joan Collins, Peter Cushing and Richard Greene. (GP).

TOGETHER — Sexploitation. A documentary-style approach toward various sexual relationships. (X).

TOKLAT — A grizzled Leon Ames encounters the wilderness and a giant grizzly bear. Family fare. (G).

DIRTY HARRY — Clint Eastwood portrays a tough San Francisco police homicide inspector who tracks down a killer sniper. Some violent scenes. (R).

THE COWBOYS — Schoolboy cowhands, led by Montana rancher John Wayne, mature quickly on a 400-mile cattle drive in the 1870s. (GP—Some scenes may not be suitable for pre-teenagers.)

Beefed-up lifeguard force set for holiday

Easter Week is expected to bring thousands of people to the beach during the next nine days, and the Long Beach lifeguards issued a warning Friday for swimmers not to overextend themselves.

"Remember that most likely you are not in the same condition for swimming that you were last summer, so don't attempt long-distance swims," said Chief of Lifeguards John P. Olszewski.

"The water temperature should be a cool 58 degrees compared with the summer temperature of 68 degrees," Olszewski pointed out. "This colder temperature is much more exhausting to the swimmer."

About 30 additional lifeguards will be added to the Long Beach staff for Easter Week. All are trained, experienced guards, but all must take a new physical exam and undergo a physical test Saturday morning, Olszewski said.

ONE PART OF the test is the run-swim-run, in which the lifeguards run 250 yards along the beach, swim 250 yards around a buoy in the ocean, then run back down the beach 250 yards. This will take place about 8:30 a.m. on the beach at the foot of Cherry Avenue.

The majority of the seasonal guards to be added next week are college students, earning additional money during spring vacation.

Olszewski also reminded beachgoers that dogs are not allowed on public beaches, whether on a leash or not. Animal control officers will patrol the local strand and have authority to issue citations.

J. G. WADE

Chemical worker eyes council seat

Jeryl Glenn Wade, 28, candidate for Long Beach City Council, 7th District, advocates formation of a "civilian review board" for all city agencies as part of his campaign platform.

Wade, a bachelor and Long Beach native, said the board would have six members — two blacks, two whites and two Chicanos. Its membership would be limited to "middleclass voters in an annual pay bracket of not less than $7,500 and not more than $11,000.

Other Wade platform planks include a concentrated attack on venereal disease; higher qualifications and correspondingly higher pay for policemen; night City Council meetings; a limit of two consecutive terms for councilmanic service and free bus service for the elderly.

Wade, employed by the Shell Chemical Co. in Torrance, attended Poly High School and Long Beach City College. Acknowledging that he has no experience and only classroom knowledge of politics, Wade said, "I know I can do a much better job than your present official, a job which I feel has been done very poorly."

Harris Rogers rites set today

Services will be held 11 a.m. today in First Baptist Church of Long Beach for Harris Rogers, prominent building contractor and friend of athletes at California State College, Long Beach. Mr. Rogers died Wednesday from injuries in an automobile accident. He was 59.

HARRIS ROGERS

A native of Oklahoma, who spent much of his youth in Long Beach where his father was in the oil development field, he settled here 35 years ago, and became a general contractor. He built many condominium apartments in Long Beach, including six named for his wife, daughters and granddaughters.

Nadyne, of the Huntington Beach family residence; three daughters, Joyce Rogers, Mrs. Warren George, Mrs. Don Phillips, all of Long Beach, and four grandchildren.

Mottell's Mortuary is in charge of the funeral. The Rogers family suggests contributions to the Harris Rogers Memorial Fund for the Forty-Niner Athlete Foundation, at California State College, Long Beach.

Rep. Anderson to be feted at buffet

Congressman Glenn M. Anderson, D-San Pedro, will be honored at a 4 p.m. Sunday buffet reception in the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union Hall, 2100 W. Willow St., sponsored by the Democratic Action Group, a new Long Beach political organization.

The $1.50 per person fund-raising affair is being held also to acquaint Long Beach voters with the fact that Anderson's reapportioned congressional district, now numbered the 35th, will include portions of Long Beach.

Anderson's newly drawn district includes West Long Beach, west of the flood control channel with a finger extending eastward as far as Cherry Avenue.

Northern edge of the finger is Hill Street. The southern border is mainly Anaheim Street, but dips south at the channel to about Eight Street, then east to Atlantic, north to Tenth, east to California, north to Anaheim and east to Cherry Avenue.

The public is welcome.

44 seeking office in L.B. primary election

The number of candidates in the race for nine City Council seats and three other elective offices in the Long Beach municipal primary election on May 9 rose to 44 Friday, as two new filings were recorded by the city clerk's office.

Orval Ray Ostrander filed his declaration of candidacy in the First District and Thurman G. Holder II filed as a candidate in the Eighth District.

There now are 37 declared candidates for the nine City Council seats, two for city attorney, one for city auditor and four for city prosecutor.

Litter-ally he's not guilty, city says of T-man

City Prosecutor James T. Starr refused Friday to issue a littering complaint against an Internal Revenue Service agent who had thrown some antitax literature in the street during a confrontation with income tax opponents.

Starr added that the tax rebels may themselves have violated the municipal code by unlawfully attaching material to agent James P. George's windshield wiper.

Richard Baker, a spokesman for the antitax group, known as Expo 72, had filed a littering report with the police Thursday.

George and another agent had gone to a beauty shop at 3325 E. 4th St. to talk to shop owner Blanche Allen about her unpaid 1970 federal income taxes. When they arrived, they were met by a crowd of tax dissidents. The alleged littering incident took place as the agents were leaving in their car.

GARDENING

PETUNIAS . . . Kin to Potatoes

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

Petunias derive from Argentina. They belong to the potato family (Solanaceae) in which tomatoes member. Some may consider petunias weak and straggly, maybe sticky and clammy, but you'll have to search far and wide for an annual that is such a heat lover, grows so robustly, and furnishes equal masses of flowers. Some gardeners have discovered the blossoms may be used as cut flowers for a day or two indoors. The faint spicy flower fragrance also adds a bit of interest.

In a prepared soil, containing some organic matter that retains moisture, the plants tolerate lots of sunshine. Grow them edging a driveway, a walk, a flower bed, in a group by themselves.

They are excellent as potted plants if pinched when young to force more bushiness and are delightful in planter boxes.

Petunias are susceptible to frost but some gardeners plant them in the fall. They survived the winter, develop sturdy root systems and bloom beautifully throughout the summer season the following year.

Marguerites whether pink, white, or yellow planted near a wall, or back of a sunny flower bed, provide delightful color contrast if Felicia are planted in a staggered row in front of them. The smaller daisy-like blossoms of the lower-growing Felicias are a rich blue color. Both types of plant, Marguerites and Felicias furnish masses of blossoms and flower the same time. Both are perennials but marguerites are likely to be sparse bloomers during the hottest season.

Gardeners seeking quick color and cutting flowers should plant Calendula and Iceland poppies in sunny areas. Calendulas are taller growers. They should be set behind the Iceland poppies. The calendulas should be spaced a foot apart, the Iceland poppies six to eight inches apart.

Matty, thickly overgrown ground covers such as ivy, ivy leaf geraniums, trailing lantana, trailing euonymus and raggedly looking ground cover type verbenas such as Peruvian verbenas, sand verbenas and other similar types, should be cut back before the weather gets too warm.

Rejuvenate the planting area by cutting back, cleaning out the debris, and spraying with insecticide and fertilizing.

Easter lilies 90% Californian

SMITH RIVER — Ninety per cent of the easter lilies sold in the U.S. come from this Northern California coastal town four miles from Oregon.

When World War II dried up Japanese lily bulb exports to this country, a 12-mile strip here between the redwoods and the surf was found to be ideal for growing them.

Now a score of producers harvest some 10 million lily bulbs from about 500 acres under cultivation.

GARDEN CLINIC

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

Q. — My carnation foliage has dry-rusty tips. Enclosed is a sample. This happens though I cut them back almost to ground level. Please let me know what to do. Mrs. H. Hayes.

A. — The plants may be getting too much water. More likely soil is kept constantly damp. Another problem could be spider mites. They'll even cause a carnation bud to dry up.

Q. — Our Meyer lemon tree produces a great crop every year. Why is the skin on the fruit rougher and thicker than usual this year? The lemons are unusually large. Mrs. Burdell C. Duglin.

A. — It sounds as though suckers below the bud union have grown up through the Meyer lemon bush. The root stock of the Meyer lemon is different from the fruit that it produces. Pick out the largest fruit and cut it in half and squeeze it. If there's hardly any juice, while the other smaller, thinner-skinned lemons have lots of juice, my guess is correct. If I'm wrong, please let me know.

Q. — I have a beautiful Clivia which now has 10 huge blossoms. Every year it gets prettier. I would like to propagate some new plants from it, but I have never been able to find anyone who can tell me how to do it. Please help me. Ted Sperry.

A. — Dig up the huge clump when flowers begin to fade. Carefully pull apart the individual plants with least root damage. Cut back torn or damaged roots to healthy tissue. Rejuvenate the soil by working in some organic matter mixed with bone meal, or flower-fruit power fertilizer in the bottoms of the holes. Spread inch or two of layer of prepared soil over it. Be sure to finger firm the prepared soil between the roots. Add vitamin B-1 with the first watering. Continue to add vitamin B-1 to the water once each week for about four or five weeks.

Palm Sunday programs will feature music and children

Special musical programs are offered in many Long Beach area churches on Palm Sunday, the day when Jesus of Nazareth entered Jerusalem to begin the last fateful week of His life on earth. Many Lutheran churches will hold colorful confirmation services of young people, bearing palms, as did the people of Jerusalem 1,942 years ago.

The Choristers, a versatile group of 30 singers and instrumentalists, will offer a concert at 6 p.m. in First Baptist of Lakewood, 5336 Arbor Road, Long Beach. Guest harpist Jeanne King will join the group, with Shirley Britt as pianist-organist. Director is John Hallett, who has written more than 500 sacred compositions and won national awards.

"The Cross of Christ," a cantata by Donald Romme, will be presented at 4 p.m. in First Methodist, Fifth Street and Pacific Avenue, directed by Rosalie Barker, with the Sanctuary Choir and noted soloists Marie Elena Pathekas, soprano, Constance Hart, contralto, Eugene Hall, tenor, Robert Larsen, bass. Organist is Helen Davenport.

"The Crucifixion," a cantata by Stainer, will be presented 7 p.m. in North Long Beach Christian, 1115 E. Market St. "The Eternal King" will be offered at 7 p.m. in Parkcrest Church of Christ, 5950 Parkcrest St., directed by Wilson C. Bridges, with Mrs. Carol Thorpe at the organ.

Orangethrope United Methodist Church of Fullerton will offer a Palm Sunday presentation based on Jesus Christ Superstar, at its 8, 9:30 and 11 a.m. services. A modern dance group and the choir will participate, with the sermon coordinated with the theme.

The Chancel and Youth Choirs of Bixby Knolls Christian, 1240 E. Carson St., will present a concert of Easter music at 7 p.m.

Religion course

The profound influence of religion on world culture and the ways of man will be evaluated by prominent clergy and lay authorities during a UCLA Extension series of eight lectures viewing "Religion and the Human Condition," Tuesdays, beginning April 4, 7:30 to 10 p.m., at UCLA.

War-related stocks nixed by Brethren

To "bring its investment practices and peace pronouncements in line," the Church of the Brethren General Board voted this week to divest itself of holdings in corporations directly producing defense or weapons-related products.

The board, meeting in Elgin, Ill., further declared it will not knowingly invest in companies which fail to practice fair and equal employment opportunities nor in banks or firms which transact business with governments having apartheid policies. A long standing ban on investments in the tobacco and alcoholic beverage industries was upheld.

On the positive side, the guidelines stipulate the board will invest in companies working to improve

GET UP TO 3 TIMES MORE ROSES

THIS PLANT FED WITH MIRACLE-GRO

Famous University reports —

Use of Miracle-Gro increased the general vigor of rose plants considerably, with many more stronger, longer shoots and branches, much more and greener foliage, as well as double to triple the number of more beautiful blooms.

University test proves 30-second "instant action" in 5-ft. rose bush

Famous University scientists added tiny quantities of radioactive tracers to test solution of Miracle-Gro. They then applied this solution to the roots of a 5-foot rose bush. Within 30 seconds, Geiger counter registered definite activity at top of bush — proof of how fast Miracle-Gro works.

GUARANTEED RESULTS IN 7 DAYS

Stems will refund full purchase price at any time if you don't get superior results.

MORE UNIVERSITY TESTS DEMONSTRATE AMAZING FAST ACTION WITH SAFETY

Plant Number 3 received most liquid plant food. Visible improvement was noticed within a few days. There were absolutely no signs of fertilizer burning or forcing.

CONCENTRATED! just add water

SAFE—will not "burn" even in hot dry weather when used as directed. Excellent for lawns, trees, shrubs, flowers, and house plants.

CONCENTRATED! ECONOMICAL! Mix one tablespoon in one gallon of water for guaranteed results. HELPS PENETRATE HARD SOIL. Contains concentrated soil-wetting ingredient. Helps reach deep roots fast; helps roots absorb more food and water; reduces wasteful run-off.

United Church of Christ negative

Looks like end for COCU

By LES RODNEY

The growing feeling that the steam has gone out of the attempt to unite nine Protestant denominations received confirmation this week.

The United Church of Christ, one of the originators in 1961 of the Consultation on Church Union (COCU) along with the Episcopalians, Presbyterians and Methodists, just about put the nail in the coffin in its official response to the Draft Plan of Union.

Rev. Dr. Robert V. Moss, UCC president, paid verbal service to "the advancement of Christian unity," and then asked the negative rhetorical question: "Is it possible in these times for an entire denomination . . . to move together into a new structure?"

The UCC, itself formed by union of the Congregational Christian and Evangelical and Reformed Churches, a groundbreaking merger, went through years of litigation before it was able to adopt a constitution and set up its national and regional structures.

But, the point is, it DID get straightened away, and knew all about the technical problems of union when it joined the COCU talks. So there has to be something more behind the negativism. There is.

It is the general suspicion toward large centralized institutions, the feeling abroad of local powerlessness in the face of large, cold, impersonal bureaucracy. This sentiment is not "conservative" or "liberal." It is widespread. Not all the sincere, hard-working efforts of the COCU planners to show that this is not at all what they have in mind for "The Church of Christ Uniting" can prevail over this feeling.

Said the UCC statement: "One of the things we hear is the strong feeling of the local churchman and churchwoman that the one remaining institution in which his or her voice is heard and his or her presence counts is the local church." Regardless of the intention of the draft plan,

Dr. Moss continued, this fear of hierarchical and pyramidal structure is "a serious obstacle."

Church members, it was added, are also concerned about the right of local congregations to hold property and to call and dismiss their ministers. More dialogue is asked on these matters. But, of course, it is late in the planning day to reopen the whole bag.

There is one more thing mentioned. The UCC, the statement indicates, put higher priorities today on pressing national moral and social issues such as "the divisions caused by war, by racial injustice . . . and the efforts to meet 'the faith crisis' and strengthen the local church."

The time has come, it concludes, for COCU to "make a candid reassessment of itself and its prospects."

It all translates very much like "Include us out."

A gloomy future COCU was recently voiced by Rev. Dr. Albert Outler,

Methodist theologian and ecumenical leader, who told a Dallas area study of the draft plan that a "Severe slump" in the Protestant ecumenical movement has left Roman Catholics as "the most interested and actively committed of all the churches in Christendom."

Although ecumenism was the "in" thing in the decade just past, Outler said, both the right and the left are new "jumping off the bandwagon."

The United Church of Christ statement, it should be noted, does pay tribute to COCU, especially for the development in its early years of some "theological consensus" on the ministry, the sacraments, scripture and traditions.

All participants would undoubtedly agree that whatever happens now (or rather, doesn't happen), the effort in itself may have been historically worthwhile, in providing the channel for full and extended exchanges of views, and speeding up the "getting to know you" process.

Since winter of '42

Rev. Daniel D. Barrington, with wife Inez, has been pastor of Berea Baptist Church on Linden Avenue and Adair Street in North Long Beach going on 30 years, since December, 1942. On the occasion of his retirement Sunday, the church will honor him, with a potluck dinner after the 11 a.m. service, and an all-day homecoming of old friends to greet the Barringtons and wish them well. The church grew under his ministry, and he instituted and personally supervised a mission to the Navajo Indians. He is an outdoor hobbyist who likes to paint, and has made tables of resin and rock. The Barringtons have two married sons, one a Long Beach fireman, the other working at Disneyworld.

including, with the black denominations involved.

All this would seem to be a simple prerequisite for basic Christian brotherhood and believability to others, regardless of whether the future holds formal union or diversity of traditions.

On the local scene, where it really counts in the end, the picture is of steadily improving relations, with many cross-denominational coalitions and events.

If this process continues to develop, it would seem there need be little mourning for the virtual demise of the COCU plan.

More Catholics, less priests

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The number of Roman Catholics in the world increased by seven million from 1969 to 1971 but the number of priests kept falling, as it has done steadily for about a decade. Priests were down 4,228 to 347,481.

The "Activity of the Holy

Catholics rap new family plan stamp

The director of the Family Life Division, U.S. Catholic Conference, has criticized the Post Office Department for issuing the Family Planning Commemorative Stamp.

Mrs. James T. McHugh said the stamp supports the position of those who urge the government to adopt policies that will put pressure on married couples to limit family size to two children. As such, he termed it "the latest intrusion of government into the private lives of its citizens."

The family planning Commemorative Stamp, whose official issue date is March 18, depicts a man, a woman and two children with the words Family Planning at the top.

See, a yearbook, listed 533,604,110 Roman Catholics for 1971. This made a world average of 1,535 Catholics for each priest.

Confident living

Palm Sunday and Jesus Movement

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

Palm Sunday seems more appropriate than ever this year considering the burgeoning Jesus Movement. People who think of Jesus as merely an unreal mystic figure out of a dim and ancient past, appearing in stained glass windows, are finding that a switch is going on.

Not once but twice last year Jesus Christ actually made the cover of a national news magazine. And all because young people are going for Jesus Christ in unprecedented numbers. I can't say I go for all forms of this new Jesus Movement, not being the type to sit around on the floor with a guitar! I admit to being a member of the established church. But it is sad, indeed, that some churches have become so institutionalized and stuffy that they are void of the real heart that is religion itself. Some churches seem to assume that only an intellectualized social action preaching is the thing; no emotion, no feeling.

WHEN I was a boy I remember at revival meetings you heard "Amen" and "Praise the Lord" uttered by people filled with emotion. Then people became too sophisticated to express what they felt. The church became formal and super-intellectualized. And because the emotional heart of religion was bottled up, lots of people, especially youth, just stopped going to church. It didn't grab them. Why should it? They wanted excitement and they were not getting an exciting Christianity.

Perhaps the basic reason many kids are bewildered-like is because they are looking for some substance in life which they cannot find. They want their lives to have some real meaning and in their search are trying all sorts of life styles, some seemingly pretty cockeyed. Some end up drug addicts; others become so mixed up and confused that they aren't able to "feel" anything about life anymore except to be glumly down on everything.

But now by the thousands they have discovered Jesus. It sure is a pity that when they went to church He wasn't made very real to them. They found people just going through the motions and because they put very little into religion, they got very little out of it. Now Jesus is back, and how! Why? Because kids are personally "feeling" His power. (Of course He was never gone. That's the sad part of it all. He was just "out" of it all.)

A friend of mine is a self-appointed missionary on Hollywood Boulevard. Kids who leave home, mixed up in drugs and heaven knows what else, hang around this center of hippie culture. Well, Duane Pederson decided to publish with no money a newspaper called "Hollywood Free Paper" to reach these kids. Pederson began to receive letters. "Is Jesus real? Can He do for me what you say?" This led him to write a book about his experiences. He tells of a boy he met leaning against a telephone pole. They sat down — not in a church — but on the curbstone. He asked the youngster where he was from.

"Salt Lake City," answered the boy. Then he opened up and told Pederson about his drunken father who constantly beat him. "Sometimes he took a butcher knife and told my mother he would cut her heart out if she didn't do what he wanted. It scared us to death and when I was 13 I ran away; I couldn't take it anymore. I've tried everything — liquor, drugs, sex, theft. You name it; I've experienced it," the boy almost sobbed. "Have you tried Jesus?" asked Pederson as he put his arm around the boy's shoulder. "He loves you. He will help you to like yourself. Try giving your life to Him."

AFTER A long silence the boy said, "Okay, I'll buy that." And right there on the curbstone, the 15-year-old boy who minutes before was shuddering hopelessly against a pole, became one of the "Jesus people." There was a new light in his eyes. Together they went to Pederson's office where the boy called his family. "I've wanted to do this often," he admitted, "but I never thought I'd be able to." When the boy's mother answered she couldn't believe it was her long-lost son. "Is it really you? Are you all right?"

"Yes, Mom," he replied. "I'm all right, but I'm changed. Can I come home?"

"Just as fast as you can get here," she cried happily.

Triple amputee at Lime Ave.

Charlie Brown, a triple amputee whose world travels have earned him the title of "humanitarian hitchhiker," will speak Sunday at the 7:30 p.m. service of Lime Avenue Baptist Church, 850 Lime Ave.

Rev. Frank L. Miller, pastor, said Brown's appearances are designed to demonstrate to handicapped persons they can lead lives of freedom and worth if they so choose. Brown will be baptized at the service.

the boy's mother. "Our boy came home so different. Now we, too, are committed to Jesus so that we can get up to our son's standard. He is changing our whole family."

So it appears that Jesus still rides today, just as He did on that first Palm Sunday long long ago.

Passover starts Wednesday

'Wherefore is this night different?'

Passover, the eight-day festival which commemorates the freedom of the Jews from Egyptian bondage more than 3,250 years ago, will be celebrated beginning sundown Wednesday.

Judaism's oldest holiday, which did much to shape ensuing history, is based on the divine imperative flung by Moses into the teeth of ancient tyranny: "This saveth the Lord — let my people go!"

The Scriptures enjoin Jews: "This day shall be for you a memorial day, and you shall keep it as a feast to the Lord; throughout your generations you shall observe it as an ordinance forever."

Reflecting centuries of persecution when for security reasons the home became the synagogue, the

INVITE ISOLATED, NEEDY SENIORS

The Jewish Family Service and the Jewish Community Center of Long Beach are sponsoring a special Passover Seder for elderly Jewish people in this area who are isolated or in need. Anyone interested, who knows of such persons, can phone 426-8166. The Seder will be held Thursday evening at Temple Beth El, 853 Linden Ave. There will be no charge, and transportation will be provided if needed.

festival is mostly observed in the home, with one or more families gathering for the traditional meal, the Seder. In recent years some synagogues have sponsored community Seders at which hundreds follow the ancient procedures together. Temple Sinai of Long Beach will hold one such Wednesday, with an old non-Jewish friend, Cesar Chavez, as a guest.

"Wherefore is this night different from all other nights?" asks the youngest child when the family is seated at table, laden with traditional goodies. The head of the household answers from the "Haggadah," the oft-told story beginning "We were Pharaoh's slaves in Egypt..."

Church finance secrecy deplored

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican Council of the Laity recommended to Pope Paul VI that Church finances be opened to public scrutiny because keeping them secret discouraged many Roman Catholics from actively participating in Church work.

The group spoke of a need to help nonorganized members of the Church to a "Christian commitment to society" and expressed concern over the reluctance of young people to pledge themselves to Church work.

"In this connection," it said, "we stress also the need for openness in the institutional affairs of the Church, and the matter of finance as an example where secretiveness at any level is an obstacle to the deep commitment of many to apostolic work."

LEADER WILL PREACH HERE

Rev. Dr. Gaylerd Falde, bishop of the American Lutheran Church Southwest District, will speak Sunday 8:30 and 11:30 a.m. from the pulpit of St. Timothy Lutheran Church of Lakewood, 5840 Arbor Road, as part of the church's 20th anniversary celebration.

WHAT WILL YOU GIVE YOUR CHILD?

The best parent can't give his child all the answers. What he can give him is a foundation to grow on—a way to seek out those answers with confidence.

Every week in the Christian Science Sunday School, children discuss with each other, and with adults, exactly how God helps them each day to overcome problems and limitations. It's education of the most practical and lasting kind.

Soledad case in lap of jury

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Soledad Brothers murder trial went to the jury at 4:30 p.m. Friday afternoon after Superior Court Judge S. Lee Vavuris spent an hour telling it six verdicts were possible.

He said the all-white jury of nine women and three men could convict John Clutchette and Fleeta Drumgo of first or second degree murder, manslaughter, aggravated or simple assault if it did not find them innocent.

The two are accused in the death of guard John Mills Jan. 16, 1970, who was beaten and thrown from a third floor cell tier at Soledad Prison. They were charged originally along with George Jackson, who was killed while awaiting trial last August at San Quentin Prison in what authorities said was an escape attempt. Two white convicts and three white guards died in the same incident.

VAVURIS told the jury to deliberate two hours, then recess for the night and return to deliberations at 9 a.m. Saturday. He said they should resume deliberations Sunday afternoon if a verdict is not reached by that time.

Vavuris charged the jury after the prosecution rested its case and after he had ordered one of the defense attorneys to jail for contempt.

Defense attorney Floyd Silliman moved for mistrial after prosecutor William Curtis referred to fatal shootings of three black inmates by a white guard at Soledad Prison on Jan. 13, 1970. The defendants, John Clutchette and Fleeta Drumgo are charged in the slaying of guard John Mills three days later in a nearby prison wing.

SILLIMAN contended the defense was not permitted to discuss the Jan. 13 incident, so it was improper for Curtis to use the killings to implicate the defendants in Mills' slaying.

Vavuris immediately rejected the motion.

In his final argument, Curtis said:

"There is intent by some people to destroy the prison system... Victory is not in sight for them until that happens."

He told the jury, "You can make decision as to whether these defendants — these murderers — are going to go free." Then Clutchette's mother, Inez Williams, said from the audience, "That bastard called my baby a murderer."

Some laughter by Soledad Brothers supporters was audible to the jury.

"I WONDER if they're laughing at us," said Curtis, referring to the defendants.

"I wonder what their reaction is going to be if you return a verdict of not guilty."

"They know that they participated in the murder of John Mills," he concluded. "Don't let them laugh at you."

Earlier, Vavuris slapped a five day contempt sentence on defense attorney Richard Silver for saying "Jesus Christ."

Both Silver and Silliman had jumped to their feet in protest when the prosecutor told the jury the plight of blacks was not at issue in the trial.

Curtis said the trial involved only the murder of a prison guard, adding:

"The plight of blacks does not concern this case."

Both attorneys at this point rose to object.

SUPERIOR Court Judge S. Lee Vavuris pounded his gavel and when Silliman refused to sit down, the judge pounded the gavel again. Silver then said something inaudible to spectators.

Vavuris declared Silver in contempt, saying: "Let the record show you said, 'Jesus Christ.' I am going to give you five days in county jail." Curtis had urged the nine-woman, three-man jury not to pity the defendants nor have passion against them.

County to beef up jail after mass 'walkout'

REDWOOD CITY (AP) — The San Mateo County Sheriff's Department said Friday it planned to install new security devices at the county jail, including a closed-circuit television system, following the escape of nine inmates earlier this week.

Eight of the nine were still at large.

Sheriff Karl B. Whitmore also said his deputies were searching for five missing keys to cell doors. A search Thursday night turned up one missing key which operated locks on the cell doors from which the mass escape was made.

The nine inmates, all considered dangerous, walked out of the jail Wednesday night after opening their cell block with a key and sawing through a bolt on a door.

One of the escapees, Joseph Bernard Mora, convicted of attempted murder, faces murder charges in San Mateo County.

Whitmore said Friday the combinations on all cell locks in the jail would be changed, and a closed circuit television surveillance system and a metal detector would be installed within the next two months.

KING-SIZED PAIN

Florida State junior Ron King grimaces as he collides with North Carolina defender Billy Cunningham during Thursday night's NCAA semifinals. King scored 22 points, including 10 on free throws, to lead Seminoles into finals against defending champion UCLA today.

UCLA title express: can it be stopped?

By LOEL SCHRADER
Staff Writer

The U.S. Supreme Court is considering the possibility of eliminating capital punishment.

It's doubtful, however, whether the judiciary or anyone else can save Florida State from swift execution today in the championship game of the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. basketball tournament.

Hardly anyone gives the Seminoles a chance of ending UCLA's nearly total domination of college basketball.

In the last eight years, the Bruins have won seven national titles, including five in succession. They have won 31 consecutive NCAA games and haven't been beaten in a two-season span that covers 44 games.

Despite a bombardment from the president of the College Coaches' Association Friday, Florida State coach Hugh Durham appeared composed.

"I've picked up some of John Wooden's philosophy," said Durham. "The more talented people you have, the more you concern yourself with what you are going to do rather than what the opposition is going to do."

Maybe so, but Durham and the Seminoles certainly will have to concern themselves with UCLA's 6-11 Bill Walton when the championship match begins at 2 p.m. today. North Carolina and Louisville battle for third place at noon. Both games will be televised on Ch. 4.

"We'll have to shoot well and hope Walton doesn't hit the phenomenal percentage he made against Louisville (11 of 13)," says Durham. "I know he's a good shooter—maybe 65 per cent or so—but no one is supposed to hit like that."

JOHN DIXON, Sports Editor

SATURDAY, MARCH 25, 1972

Durham reported that 6-11, 210-pound Leon McCray will have the assignment of guarding Walton.

The NCAA's tournament press book lists Walton at the same size, a statistic Durham seemed to dispute.

"I think he's grown some since they weighed and measured him last," grinned the Florida State coach.

Durham emphasized the difficulty of trying to assess Walton's domination of a game until he is seen in person.

"You don't realize how much he can affect a game until you watch him," added the Florida State coach. "He takes up a whole third of the area underneath the basket."

"He's the most dominating figure we'll have had the opportunity to go against."

Wooden ducked questions about the strength of Florida State, which goes into the championship game with a 27-5 record.

"I don't know if Florida State is the quickest team we've played," said the UCLA coach. "I don't think you can measure that until you go against them."

"We've played some quick ones. But maybe we haven't played anyone as big and quick."

Wooden said Walton should be in good physical condition, despite a couple of nasty spills in UCLA's win over Louisville in the semifinals.

"He'll be all right," said Wooden. "We don't have any excuses."

Which brought him to the subject of complaints, first last week by Cal State Long Beach and Thursday night by Louisville, that Walton and his teammates were being coddled by officials.

"I believe that if you win, you shouldn't say much," he advised, "and if you lose, you should shut up."

Well, it's put up or shut up today.

WRITERS TAB RATLEFF AS ALL-AMERICA

Ed Ratleff of Cal State Long Beach kept his string alive Friday when he was chosen to the all-America team announced by the U.S. Basketball Writers Assn.

Bill Walton of UCLA was selected 1972 player of the years by the writers.

Ratleff and Walton are the only two players chosen to every all-America first team announced thus far.

West's basket beats Suns

By DOUG IVES
Staff Writer

This is a recording:

Jerry West's jump shot with two seconds remaining Friday night capped a brilliant rally that enabled the Lakers to outlast the Phoenix Suns, 112-110, at the Forum.

West providing the game-winning shot has become habit-forming in his sensational 12-year career, but in season of record-breaking, no one could come up with the number of times he has emerged as a last-second hero.

"Golly, I have no idea," said West when asked to make a wild guess. "All I know is that I didn't shoot very well tonight, so I'm glad that last one went in."

West had failed on 16 of 24 attempts when he rolled off a Wilt Chamberlain screen and rammed in a 17-footer from the top of the free throw circle and put his team ahead for the first time in the quarter.

Gail Goodrich's offense and Chamberlain's shot-blocking mastery had kept the Lakers in contention until West took over to live up to his nickname of "Mr. Clutch."

The victory was the Lakers' 68th, tying a NBA record for one season, and it was their 35th at the Forum, eclipsing Milwaukee's 34 home wins of a year ago.

The Lakers figure to crack the all-time total win record Sunday in their final against Seattle. What should be more interesting is West's bid for a 2,000-point season. He needs 29.

West's winning shot almost didn't stand up. In fact, it took a controversial call by referee Joe Rel-

Last event decides meet

Beaver spikers edge 49ers

By JOHN DIXON

Five feet, a miniscule fraction of a mile, east Cal State Long Beach the biggest dual meet victory of its track history Friday.

With 18 events terminated, Oregon State led Cal State Long Beach, 79-78.

The victor in the final event, the mile relay, would earn five points, the loser none.

At the end of a quarter-mile, James Love (50.0) of Long Beach held a 10-yard lead. After a half-mile, 49er Gary Nickerson (49.7) led by four yards. With only 440 yards remaining, Dennis Ruby (48.5) of Long Beach was two yards ahead. The anchor men were Wayne Stevenson, Long Beach, and Don Pedrick, Oregon State.

Pedrick challenged, drew abreast of Stevenson on the backstretch, but Stevenson fought him off. Pedrick challenged again around the final curve. With 75 yards to the tape, he inched to the fore. At the tape he led Stevenson by five feet.

Pedrick, whose lifetime best quarter-mile was 47.7, stopwatched 47.3. Stevenson, a 48.5 quartermiler, was timed at 47.9.

Oregon State won the meet by five feet, six points — 84 to 78.

"This was one heck of a meet," said Long Beach coach Jack Rose with a smile half happy, half sad. "I thought that if we got a Pacific-8 power in here, our team would respond. It did."

Rose had plenty to smile about, such as Royce Ford's triple — 9.7, 21.3 sprint wins, and anchor leg in the 440 relay, 40.7. Terry Metcalf also tripled — 23-10 $\frac{1}{4}$ long jump, 48-4 $\frac{1}{2}$ triple jump, and leadoff leg in the 440-relay.

Ron Pryor, whose career pinnacle in the two-mile was 9:06.8, won decisively in 8:55.0, while Steve Smith became the first 17-foot pole vaulter on the 49er field.

This was Smith's fourth consecutive outdoor conquest of 17-foot, and his most difficult.

After passing earlier

heights, he climbed over 16 feet on his third attempt. He topped 16-6 on his third attempt, and surpassed 17-0 on his second. Then he asked officials to raise the bar to 18-1, three-quarters of an inch above the world record.

Wind gusts and Pacific Coast Club coach Tom Jennings persuaded Smith to stop without a record attempt.

"Considering the wind," analyzed Smith, a leading Olympic Games candidate, "I'm satisfied — 17 feet was a good jump. I hope to go a foot higher Saturday at Bakersfield."

The day's most competitive events were the half-mile and intermediate hurdles.

Dennis Ruby of Long Beach (52.5) outkicked Oregon State's Steve Casey (52.6) and Tom Ries (53.0) in the intermediates, but the unbeaten record of 49er Phil Moses was halted in the half-mile.

Moses scampered to a lifetime best of 1:52.4, yet was beaten in the final yards by Beavers Ron Borden (1:50.5) and Clay Lowrey (1:51.3).

"That was our biggest event today," pointed out OSU coach Benny Wagner.

John Van Reenen of South Africa won an exhibition discus with an outstanding throw of 209-6 — seven feet beyond his 1971 best mark.

Wall takes the 'Bull' by the horns

It was a tremendous one-on-one duel—probably the best since Sidney Wicks waged war on Artis Gilmore in the 1970 NCAA championship game in College Park, Md.

Paired in Friday's match were Bill Wall, President of the National Assn. of Basketball Coaches, and Hugh Durham, whose Florida State Seminoles have the unenviable assignment of trying to end UCLA's domination of college basketball.

Addressing newsmen at a press conference Friday, Wall charged that Durham had "been caught with his hands in the till twice" and that "coaches here are amazed, disappointed and disillusioned" with the fact that Florida State is competing for a national championship.

"I RESENT THE FACT that they are where they are," said Wall, whose MacMurray College team was 4-22 this past season.

"A lot of other coaches do, too."

When apprised of Wall's comments in a later session with the press, Durham maintained his cool, just as his Seminoles had Thursday night when North Carolina nearly made up a 23-point deficit late in a semifinal game.

Durham made no attempt to soften the fact that the Seminoles were hit twice with recruiting violations and have spent the last three seasons on NCAA probation, unable to compete for a national title.

"We're just here trying to win," he said calmly. "Dr. J. Staley Marshall, athletic director Clay Stapleton and I have been doing everything we can do to comply with NCAA regulations. We paid our penalty—now we'd like to forget the past and concentrate on the future."

Yet there was no ducking the issue, and Durham knew it.

"IT WAS A GENERAL COMMENT on independent schools," he said. "I should remind Mr. Wall, however, that the last time a school was found using a slush fund, it wasn't an independent—it was a Big Ten school (Illinois)."

Grimacing only slightly, Durham added: "I'm glad someone is perfect. I could get emotional about this, but he (Wall) really doesn't know what he's talking about."

"It's all right for a great player to attend North Carolina or UCLA or some established athletic institution. No one thinks anything about it."

"But if Long Beach State or Florida State recruits a great player, some people will ask: 'Why in the world would he want to go to Florida State or whatever the school might be?'"

Durham pleaded his case further.

"I have 10 guys on my team and two have cars," he said. "I'll match that with any team in the country."

Newsmen roared when Durham added: "One is a DeSoto. It has two-toned fenders."

Florida State has been struck with two probationary periods, the first involving the practice of permitting recruits to work out during visits to the Tallahassee school, the second resulting from bringing three players to Atlanta for recruiting purposes.

NCAA regulations preclude recruiting at sites other than the home town of the student-athlete or the city in which the institution is located.

THREE FLORIDA STATE PLAYERS—Reggie Royals, Ron King and Lawrence McCray were among 11 players from six schools required to sign affidavits before regional games last week. They stated they had signed neither professional nor agent contracts.

"Our office (NABC) is the one that broke the affidavit deal to the NCAA office," Wall volunteered. "We broke the information and that's the fastest we've ever seen the NCAA work."

"Word came to us that some people had signed pro contracts and some had signed with agents."

Wall added that "three dozen schools are being investigated, yet the coaches of some institutions that are involved show up at something like a Fellowship of Christian Athletes meeting."

"This is hypocrisy," he charged. "How many coaches here (at the coaches' convention) have been shacked up with women other than their wives? And some are dead drunk on the streets."

"But everyone says, 'so what?' The whole attitude among coaches has changed. Guys who are hypocritical go to church and say: 'Mother of God, I'm pious.'"

Strangely, amidst all the shouting and the tugging and the pulling, no one seemed to realize that Florida State currently is in good standing with the National Collegiate Athletic Assn.

But what about UCLA, the other team in tonight's championship game? It is on probation for football recruiting violations.

It's an odd world.

Soledad case in lap of jury

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Soledad Brothers murder trial went to the jury at 4:30 p.m. Friday afternoon after Superior Court Judge S. Lee Vavuris spent an hour telling it six verdicts were possible.

He said the all-white jury of nine women and three men could convict John Clutchette and Fleeta Drumgo of first or second degree murder, manslaughter, aggravated or simple assault if it did not find them innocent.

The two are accused in the death of guard John Mills Jan. 16, 1970, who was beaten and thrown from a third floor cell tier at Soledad Prison. Case of 'losing cool'

By CHARLES J. ELIA

Q. I own $12,000 in bonds and, if they don't go down, about $28,000 in stocks. Don't ask me what made me invest all the money I saved up during 20 years of hard work. The fact is that I evidently had the make-up of a gambler and now, all of a sudden, I've "lost my cool." Please, please help. What would be my best bet — bonds, mutual funds, bank certificates? I'm 72, alone in the world and have a monthly income of $400. I read recently about "free-load" mutual funds. Are they a bet?

A. There you go again . . . getting cold feet on your plunge into stocks but still looking for a way to play. Wouldn't you rather have more money coming in and a lot less worry about your investments? Fortunately, you've "lost your cool" while you still have a sizable stake left. I've no idea whether you got a ride on those stocks or whether you just suddenly got religion.

I do think, however, that at your age and relying as you do solely on your Social Security and a small pension you need to pull back from so much risk to your capital and stress stability and income.

For one thing, part of that capital shouldn't be at risk at all but belongs in a savings account. Having available enough money for a year's living expenses and for unforeseen emergencies would be only prudent on your part.

You already have a start on the income side with those bonds. I'd suggest you add top-quality bonds, now yielding better than seven per cent, by using some of the proceeds from sale of your stocks.

Why lose sleep over your stock investments? The remedy is fast and simple — sell the stocks, add to savings and boost your holdings of high-grade bonds.

The "free-load" funds you mention are mutual funds with no sales charge. There are a good many of them around and if you simply can't resist having some of your money in the stock market, this wouldn't be the worst way to do it.

But save yourself some worry by holding your entry to a small fraction of your assets.

Q. I've inherited 20 per cent of the stock in a small corporation that is valued at about $100,000. There's no advantage in my keeping the stock and I would like to convert it to cash. The son, who inherited the other 80 per cent, doesn't want to buy my 20 per cent. Does the corporation have to redeem my stock?

A. Not very likely, unless there's some express provision in the corporation's charter or bylaws for such eventualities. If there is, it would be a rari-

This is a privately held company and unless you can convince the majority owner to buy it back, you're stuck with the stock. There's simply no other market for it, which is one of the reasons even small companies often take the registration route and go public.

From what you say there's little chance of that in this situation but it's about the only way, other than a private sale to the big owner or someone else

Positive attitude

NEW YORK (UPI) — Standard & Poor's Corp. maintains a "positive attitude toward the stock market's upward advance. However, it foresees "wider swings" as the market moves into a more speculative phase. Despite profit-taking by short-term traders, the basic trend is up and S&P would stress "reasonable value in any new buying."

that your stock will ever have any marketability.

Q. UNTIL recently a stock called Amrep was listed on the American Exchange. Was it delisted? Where can a person get information regarding the financial condition of a publicly held firm?

A. Amrep wasn't delisted; it simply moved from the Amex to a listing on the New York Stock Exchange. Keep current on companies by checking with your broker and periodically consulting such financial reporting services as Standard & Poor's or Moody's, either in the broker's offices or your public library's reference rooms.

Elia will answer only representative questions of general interest in his column.)

Turf aces vie in $86,900 San Luis Rey

Recent stakes winners Practicante, Lord Derby and Nor II head a field of 12 for the $86,900 San Luis Rey Handicap Saturday at Santa Anita.

Bids for the $125,000 San Juan Capistrano Invitational on April 8 will be at stake in the mile and one-half turf contest.

Hill Run, El Peco Ranch's full brother to Hill Rise, also looms as a prominent entry. He has won two of four starts this year after an injury sidelined him most of 1971.

Jockey Bill Shoemaker has the mount on Practicante, the Argentine distance star top-weighted at 120. Practicante's recent triumph in a division of the San Luis Obispo Handicap indicated a return to the form that made him Argentina's champion 3-year-old.

Lord Derby, winner of the other San Luis Obispo division, carried Eddie Belmonte at 116 pounds, and Nor II, winner of the second division of the recent Camino Real Handicap, probably will be ridden by Danny Velasquez in the saddle at 118.

Hill Run, with Don Pierce up, also has a 118 impost, as does Juan Bueno with Fernando Toro.

Laffit Pincay Jr. will be up on Yellow Zorker at 114, the same weight as Rinconcito. Kuble Khan II, Dendron and Moomba Fox are at 112 and Le Vanhoi is the lightweight at 111.

John Canty trains the Nor II-Le Vanhoi entry and Frank Martin trains the coupling of Kuble Khan and Dendron.

Friday, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Johnston's Balcony's Babe came on in the final strides under Pincay to nose out Gala Occasion in the headlined $15,000 Cedar Key Purse.

Gala Occasion, who went to the front at the start under Shoemaker, had opened up a clear lead in midstretch, but then was unable to hold off the late charge of Balcony's Babe, the 4-5 favorite.

STRIKE ENDS AT AQUEDUCT

NEW YORK (UPI) — Pari-mutuel clerks voted overwhelmingly Friday night to ratify a new contract with the New York Racing Association that will permit the resumption of thoroughbred racing at Aqueduct today.

"We're off and running with post time at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow," said an official of the NYRA following announcement of the vote. He said the new pact called for raises of $3.11 per man per day and provisions for the rehiring by the NYRA and the Off-Track Betting Corp. of all clerks who worked at the track last fall but were not rehired.

Executioner one to beat in Widener

HIALEAH (UPI) — Executioner is an obstinate beast who just doesn't like any other horse to get in front of him. Fourteen challengers are scheduled to try him today in the $100,000-added Widener Handicap at Hialeah Park.

In four consecutive Florida victories this winter, the tall-standing chestnut star of October House Farm has answered positively the questions of whether he has recovered from injuries suffered in the Preakness last May and whether he can win sprint, middle distance and long races.

The Widener, a testing mile and one-quarter, poses the question of whether Executioner can give away a lot of weight and still win. The favored colt must carry 127 pounds, a weight disadvantage to his rivals ranging from 4 to 20 pounds.

If all 15 start, the Widener will be worth a total of $146,600 and the winner will collect $95,290. Executioner already has earned more than $167,000 this year.

Bramble Hall tops classy pace field

Bramble Hall, back from Canada where he finished fourth behind Isle of Wright and the famed Albatross, returns to action tonight at Los Alamitos in the featured $10,000 Invitational Pace.

Racing Secretary Milton Lied has put together a fine seven-horse field for tonight's feature attraction, including Maida Million and Windy Way.

Doug Ackerman will be behind Bramble Hall as he seeks his fifth win in eight outings. The eight-year-old son of Flying Song won

GIVE YOUR CAR A LIFT THIS SPRING!

Guaranteed 10-POINT BRAKE OVERHAUL

Guaranteed 2 years or 20,000 miles

Here's what we do:

1. We start by jacking your new car up so that they will make good contact with the drums for maximum braking.
2. Then we install your new brake linings on all 4 wheels.
3. We then rebuild all four wheel cylinders.
4. And turn and true brake drums.
5. Then we inspect the master cylinder for leaks.
6. Next, we clean and repack the front wheel bearings.
7. We inspect your brake fluid lines for leaks or weak points.
8. Then we inspect your brake shoes and springs for proper tension.
9. And add heavy duty brake fluid.
10. And finally we take your car out on the road to make sure your new brakes are functioning properly.

How the serious search for Allison Mackenzie ended

By GEORGE ERES
TV-Radio Editor

One of the frequent questions that comes to a TV writer is: how useful are the publicity stories sent out by the TV stations and firms hired by individual performers?

Being absolutely honest about the subject, I reply: "invaluable."

How else, for example, would a TV writer know that "the search for Allison Mackenzie is over."

FOR THE few who don't know Allison Mackenzie, she is the character in "Peyton Place" Mia Farrow became famous playing in the television dramatization of the novel. NBC decided a while back that there's still mileage in the series and will begin the new "Return to Peyton Place" April 3 at 2 p.m., Ch. 4.

As part of the promotion for the return, there reportedly was a serious search made for the actress to play this role — and the other roles.

Periodic announcements of cast selections have been released and with production under way information that 12 cast members had been selected.

The 12 are Bettye Ackerman who will play Constance Mackenzie Carson; Lawrence Casey, Rodney Ferguson; Frank Ferguson; Eli Carson; Joe Gallison, Steve Cord. Stacy Harris, Leslie Harrington; Pat Morrow, Rita Jacks Harrington; Julie Parrish, Barbara Anderson Harrington; Ron Russell, Norman Harrington; Evelyn Scott, Ada Jacks; Warren Stevens, Elliot Carson; Guy Stockwell, Dr. Michael Rossi and Mary K. Wells, Hannah Cord.

Ferguson, Miss Morrow and Miss Scott are from the original cast.

ANNOUNCEMENT of the Allison Mackenzie??, appropriately came in a separate news release, in which James Lipton, the series writer, and Clare Simpson, vice president of daytime programming for NBC-TV, are quoted on the subject.

Lipton said the new Allison Mackenzie will be played by "one of the most gifted young actresses I've ever worked with. She has incredible flexibility; there is almost nothing she can't do. She has an emotional suppleness you encounter very rarely in an actress of any age. And to find this in an actress is like finding a treasure."

She is a "tremendous talent," said Simpson. The new Allison Mackenzie is Kathy Glass, who has played Kim Jordan in the ABC-TV daytime drama, "The Best of Everything." I don't recall ABC sending out rave comments like Lipton's about her.

At any rate, Miss Glass is 25 years old, is 5 feet 6 inches tall, is single and her hobbies, the publicity man reports, are sewing and her dog, Sam.

CH. 13 will air an hour show at 5 tonight on the story of Knott's Berry Farm; Dave Reeves and Hobo Kelly are co-hosts.

RADIO NOTE: The Metropolitan Opera broadcast at 11 a.m. today on KPAC (1330-AM; 92.3, FM) will be Donizetti's "The Daughter of the Regiment," with Richard Bonynge conducting. Principal roles will be sung by Joan Sutherland, Monica Sinclair, Ljuba Welitsch, Enrico DiGiuseppe and Fernando Corena.

HARBOR CHEVROLET

Because she has a charge account here, a little elderly lady whose car had been in for repairs, drove off in it having forgotten to check it out with the Service Department. She had hardly reached the street when a terrific tumult erupted in the engine compartment! Driving around the block and returning to one of our diagnosticians who raised the very long hood of the Monte Carlo in an effort to locate the cause of the ladies consternation, he peered inside and found... the mechanic was still working on it!!

Being a little bit of a fella - (a former jockey, in fact), the mechanic had been trying to fit a new fan-belt onto the lower pulley - and was just "going into the stretch"!!

Folks - if you feel faint at some of the hi-prices you've seen - you might need a stretcher - a dollar-stretcher that is, and that's Meder at
